Trial

1 (In open court; case called)

2 THE COURT: Did we make whatever the change was?

3 THE CLERK: There were no changes.

4 THE COURT: Oh.

5 THE CLERK: We heard there were no changes.

6 MS. COMEY: One thing did come up this morning while 7 we were preparing this exhibits.

8 The surveillance video, which is Exhibit 213 from 9 February 21st, requires a special software to play. That 10 software is not available on the laptop that we have to send 11 back to the jury room. So, for that reason, that video alone 12 we can only play out here in the courtroom.

13 THE COURT: Is that the white car going back and 14 forth?

15 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor.

16 THE COURT: In other words, the one that they're 17 probably really going to want to see.

18 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor.

19 THE COURT: That's Exhibit 213, so I'll just tell them 20 what you just said.

21 Okay. Let's get the jury in.

22 (Jury present)

23 THE COURT: Good afternoon, everyone. I hope you-all 24 had a good weekend.

25 It is now time for me to give you your instructions on

170918gayle1

Trial

1 the law. They're sort of lengthy. By statute, I have to give 2 them to you verbally, but I think it's a lot of information to 3 take in through the ears. So, I'm going to hand out copies so 4 you can read along with me.

5 Before I do that, though, one ground rule, which is, I
6 ask that you stay on the same page with me literally. If you 7 miss something and want to go back, you'll have time to do that 8 afterwards.

9 Please don't read ahead, because the one thing I think 10 is a recipe for confusion is if what you're hearing through 11 your ears and seeing with your eyes are two different things.
12 Let's read through it together. And you'll be able to keep 13 copies of these instructions and refer to them during your 14 deliberations.

15 And now I will hand out copies to everyone. Are they 16 still warm?

17 A JUROR: Yes.

18 THE COURT: Feels good. I know we should put space
19 heaters in the jury box. All right.

20 It seems like a lot of information. It is a lot of 21 information, but as I said, you'll be able to refer to it in 22 the jury room. And you'll also each get a copy of a verdict
23 form, which will list the questions you have to answer and I
24 think will help you organize your deliberations.

25 Don't freak out if it seems like a lot or if you don't

170918gayle1

Trial

1 get something on the first read-through.

2 Starting on page one, Members of the Jury, we have 3 almost reached that point where you are about to begin your 4 final function as jurors, which, as you all appreciate, is one 5 of the most important duties of citizenship in this country.
6 My instructions to you will be in four parts.

7 First, I will give some introductory instructions 8 about the role of the Court and the jury, and about the 9 presumption of innocence and the government's burden of proof.
10 Second, I will give you instructions concerning the evaluation
11 of evidence. Third, I will describe the charges and the law 12 governing those charges, which you will apply to the facts as 13 you find them to be established by the proof. The fourth and 14 final section of these instructions will relate to your 15 deliberations.

16 It is my duty to instruct you as to the law, and it is 17 your duty to accept these instructions of law and apply them to 18 the facts as you determine them.

19 A JUROR: Pardon me, Judge. I think I have all the 20 verdict sheets here.

21 THE COURT: So you do.

22 THE LAW CLERK: My apologies.

23 THE COURT: All right. You want to catch up. We're 24 just at the middle of page one. Sorry about that.

25 It's my duty to instruct you as to the law, and it's

170918gayle1

Trial

1 your duty to accept these instructions of law and apply them to 2 the facts as you determine them.

3 If an attorney stated a legal principal different from 4 any that I state to you in my instructions, it is my 5 instructions you must follow. You should not single out any 6 instruction as alone stating the law, but should consider my 7 instructions as a whole when you retire to deliberate. You
8 should not be concerned about the wisdom of any rule that I 9 state. Regardless of any opinion you may have about what the 10 law may be or ought to be. It would be a violation of your 11 oath to base your verdict on any view of the law other than 12 that which I give you.

13 You, the Members of the Jury, are the sole and 14 exclusive judges of the facts. You pass on the evidence, 15 determine the credibility of witnesses, resolve such conflicts 16 as there may be in the testimony, draw whatever reasonable 17 inferences you decide to draw from the facts as you determine 18 them, and determine the weight of the evidence. In doing so, 19 remember that you took an oath to render judgment impartially 20 and fairly, based solely on the evidence and the applicable
21 law.

22 The fact that the prosecution is brought in the name
23 of the United States of America entitles the government to no 24 greater consideration than that given to any other party to 25 this litigation. By the same token, the government is entitled

170918gayle1

Trial

1 to no less consideration.

2 The defendant has pleaded not guilty to the charges
3 against him. As a result of a plea of not guilty, the burden
4 is on the government to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt
5 as to each charge. This burden never shifts to the defendant
6 for the simple reason that the law never imposes upon a 7 defendant in a criminal case the burden or duty of testifying 8 or calling any witness or locating or producing any evidence.

9 The law presumes the defendant to be innocent of each 10 of the charges against him. This means the defendant began the 11 trial here with a clean slate. The presumption of innocence 12 alone is sufficient to acquit, unless you, as jurors, are 13 unanimously convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the 14 defendant's guilt. This presumption was with the defendant 15 when the trial began, remains with the defendant now, and will 16 remain with the defendant during your deliberations, unless and 17 until you are convinced that the government has proven the 18 defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

19 The question that naturally arises is, "What is a 20 reasonable doubt?" What does that term mean? The words almost 21 define themselves. It is a doubt based on reason and arising 22 out of the evidence in the case or the lack of evidence. It is 23 a doubt that a reasonable person has after carefully weighing 24 all of the evidence in the case.

25 Proof beyond a reasonable doubt must therefore be of

170918gayle1

Trial

1 such a convincing character, that a reasonable person would not 2 hesitate to rely on it in making an important decision.

3 Reasonable doubt is a doubt that appeals to your reason, your 4 judgment, your experience, and your common sense.

5 If, after a fair and impartial consideration of all of 6 the evidence, you can candidly and honestly say that you are 7 not satisfied with the guilt of the defendant, that you do not 8 have an abiding and firm belief that the government has proven 9 the defendant's guilt - in other words, if you have such a 10 doubt as would reasonably cause a prudent person to hesitate in 11 acting in matters of importance in his or her own affairs - 12 then you have a reasonable doubt, and in that circumstance, it 13 is your duty to acquit.

14 If, on the other hand -- sorry.

15 On the other hand, if, after a fair and impartial 16 consideration of all the evidence as applied to each element of 17 each count, you can candidly and honestly say that you do have 18 an abiding and firm belief that the government has proven the 19 defendant's guilt - such a belief as a prudent person would be 20 willing to act upon in important matters in the personal 21 affairs of his or her life - then you have no reasonable doubt, 22 and under such circumstances, it is your duty to convict.

23 Reasonable doubt is not whim or speculation. It is 24 not an excuse to avoid the performance of an unpleasant duty.
25 Nor is it sympathy for the defendant. Beyond a reasonable

170918gayle1

Trial

1 doubt does not mean a positive certainty, or beyond all
2 possible doubt. After all, it is virtually impossible for a 3 person to be absolutely and completely convinced of any 4 contested fact that by its nature is not subject to 5 mathematical proof and certainty. As a result, the law in 6 criminal cases is that it is sufficient if the guilt of the 7 defendant is established beyond a reasonable doubt, not beyond 8 all possible doubt.

9 You are to consider only the evidence in the case.
10 The evidence in this case is the sworn testimony of the 11 witnesses, the exhibits received in evidence, and any 12 stipulations to which the parties have agreed.

13 A stipulation is simply an agreement between parties 14 as to what certain facts were or what the testimony would be if 15 certain people testified before you. The stipulations are the 16 same for your purposes as the presentation of live testimony.
17 You should be consider the weight to be given such evidence, 18 just as you would any other evidence.

19 It is for you alone to decide the weight, if any, to 20 be given to the testimony and stipulations you have heard and 21 the exhibits you have seen. Testimony that I have excluded or 22 stricken is not evidence and may not be considered by you in 23 rendering your verdict. If testimony was received only for a 24 limited purpose, you must follow that limiting instruction and 25 consider the evidence only for the purpose I indicated.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 You are not to consider as evidence questions asked by 2 the lawyers. It is the witnesses' answers that are the 3 evidence, not the questions. Arguments by the attorneys are 4 not evidence because the attorneys are not witnesses. What 5 they have said to you in their opening statements and their 6 summations is intended to help you understand the evidence to 7 reach your verdict. If, however, your recollection of the 8 evidence differs from the statements made by the advocates in 9 their opening statements or summations, it is your recollection 10 that controls.

11 Finally, any statements or rulings that I may have 12 made do not constitute evidence. Because you are the sole and 13 exclusive judges of the facts, I do not mean to indicate any 14 opinion as to what the facts are or what the verdict should be.
15 The rulings I have made during the trial are not any indication 16 of my views. Also, you should not draw any inference from the 17 fact that I may, on occasion, have asked certain questions of 18 witnesses. Those questions were intended only to clarify or 19 expedite, and are not an indication of my view of the evidence.
20 In short, if anything I have said or done seemed to you to 21 indicate an opinion relating to any matter you need to 22 consider, you must disregard it.

23 You are to make your decisions based on all of the 24 evidence in the case. It does not matter which side called the 25 witness or introduced an exhibit; all the evidence should be

170918gayle1

Trial

1 weighed. But I remind you that the defendant has no obligation
2 to introduce any evidence.

3 There are two types of evidence you may properly 4 consider in reaching your verdict. One type of evidence is 5 direct evidence. One kind of direct evidence is a 6 witness' testimony about something he or she knows by virtue of 7 his or her - should be in there - own senses - something the 8 witness has seen, felt, touched or heard. Direct evidence may 9 also be in the form of an exhibit.

10 The other type of evidence is circumstantial evidence.
11 Circumstantial evidence is evidence that tends to prove one 12 fact by proof of other facts. Here is a simple example of 13 circumstantial evidence:

14 Assume that when you came into the courthouse this 15 morning, the sun was shining and it was a nice day. Assume 16 that the courtroom blinds are drawn and you cannot look 17 outside. As you are sitting here, someone walks in with an 18 umbrella that is dripping wet. Somebody else then walks in 19 with a raincoat that is also dripping wet. You cannot look 20 outside the courtroom and you cannot see whether or not it is 21 raining, so you have no direct evidence of that fact, but on 22 the combination of the facts that I've asked you to assume, it 23 would be reasonable and logical for you to conclude that 24 between the time you arrived at the courthouse and the time
25 these people walked in, it had started to rain.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 That is all there is to circumstantial evidence. You 2 infer on the basis of reason, experience, and common sense an 3 established fact from the existence or the nonexistence of some 4 other fact.

5 Many facts, such as a person's state of mind, can only 6 rarely be proved by direct evidence. Circumstantial evidence
7 is of no less value than direct evidence. The law makes no
8 distinction between the two, but simply requires that before 9 convicting the defendant, you, the jury, must be satisfied of 10 the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt from all the 11 evidence in the case.

12 I've used the term "infer," and the lawyers in their 13 arguments have asked you to draw inferences. When you draw an 14 inference, you conclude, from one or more established facts, 15 that another fact exists, and you do so on the basis of your 16 reason, experience, and common sense. The process of drawing 17 inferences from facts in evidence is not a matter of guesswork, 18 suspicion, or speculation. An inference is a reasoned, logical 19 deduction or conclusion that you, the jury may draw - but are 20 not required to draw - from the facts which have been 21 established by either direct or circumstantial evidence. In 22 considering inferences, you should use your common sense and 23 draw from the facts that you find to be proven whatever 24 reasonable inferences you find to be justified in light of your 25 experience. As I will explain in more detail later, however,

170918gayle1

Trial

1 you must not infer that the defendant is guilty of criminal 2 conduct merely because he associates with others who may have 3 engaged in such conduct, even if he knows that a crime has 4 occurred.

5 You have heard witnesses testify during trial 6 regarding the chain of custody of certain evidence, including 7 issues relating to the collection and preservation of evidence, 8 and the procedures followed by particular agencies and 9 technicians. With respect to cellphones, you have heard 10 evidence regarding the extraction of information from 11 cellphones, the placement of that information on other media, 12 and the generation of reports of the information on that media.
13 I have admitted these exhibits, including the media and 14 corresponding reports into evidence, but the integrity of the 15 chain of custody, along with any weaknesses or gaps you may 16 perceive in the chain of custody, is something you may consider 17 in evaluating the weight, if any, to be given to this evidence.

18 Now, for the important subject of evaluating 19 testimony. How do you evaluate the credibility or 20 believability of the witnesses? The answer is that you use 21 your plain, common sense. There is no magic formula by which 22 you can evaluate testimony. You should use the same tests for 23 truthfulness that you would use in determining matters of 24 importance in your everyday lives. You should ask yourselves:
25 Did the witness impress you as honest, open, and candid, or was

170918gayle1

Trial

1 the witness evasive and edgy as if hiding something? How did 2 he or she appear - that is, his or her bearing, behavior, 3 manner, and appearance while testifying? How responsive was 4 the witness to the questions asked on direct examination and on 5 cross-examination? You should consider the opportunity the 6 witness had to see, hear, and know about the things about which 7 he or she testified; the accuracy of his or her memory; his or 8 her candor or lack of candor; his or her intelligence; the 9 reasonableness and probability of his or her testimony; its 10 consistency or lack of consistency with other credible 11 evidence; and its corroboration or lack of corroboration by 12 other credible evidence.

13 In short, in deciding credibility, you should size up 14 the witness in light of his or her demeanor, the explanations 15 given, and all of the other evidence in the case. Use your 16 common sense, good judgment, and life experience.

17 Few people recall every detail of every event
18 precisely the same way. A witness may be inaccurate, 19 contradictory, and even untruthful in some respects, and yet 20 entirely believable and truthful in other respects. It is for 21 you to determine whether such inconsistencies are significant 22 or inconsequential.

23 If you find that a witness intentionally testified 24 falsely, that is always a matter of importance you should weigh 25 carefully. If you find that any witness has willfully

170918gayle1

Trial

1 testified falsely as to any material fact - that is, as to an 2 important matter - the law permits you to disregard completely 3 the entire testimony of that witness upon the principal that 4 one who testifies falsely about one material fact is likely to 5 testify falsely about everything. You are not required, 6 however, to consider such a witness as totally unbelievable.
7 You may accept so much of his or her testimony as you deem true 8 and disregard what you feel is false.

9 You are not required to accept testimony even though 10 the testimony is uncontradicted and the witness' testimony is 11 not challenged. You may decide because of the witness' bearing 12 or demeanor or because of the inherent improbability of 13 the testimony, or for other reasons sufficient to yourselves, 14 that the testimony is not worthy of belief. On the other hand, 15 you may find, because of a witness' bearing and demeanor, the 16 plausibility of the testimony, and the other evidence in the 17 case, that the witness is truthful.

18 By the processes that I've just described to you, you, 19 as the sole judges of the facts, decide which of the witnesses 20 you will believe, what portion of their testimony you accept, 21 and what weight you will give to it.

22 In deciding whether to believe a witness, you should 23 also specifically note any evidence of bias, hostility, or 24 affection that the witness may have toward one of the parties.
25 Likewise, you should consider evidence of any other interest or

170918gayle1

Trial

1 motive that the witness may have in cooperating or not 2 cooperating with a particular party. If you find any such 3 bias, hostility, affection, interest, or motive, you must then 4 consider whether it affected or colored the witness' testimony.

5 You should also take into account any evidence that a 6 witness may benefit or suffer in some way from the outcome of 7 the case. Such interest in the outcome may create a motive to 8 testify falsely and may sway a witness to testify in a way that 9 advances his or her own interests. Therefore, if you find that 10 any witness whose testimony you are considering may have an 11 interest in the outcome of this trial, then you should bear 12 that factor in mind when evaluating the credibility of his or 13 her testimony and accept it with great care.

14 Keep in mind, though, that it does not automatically 15 follow that testimony given by an interested witness is to be 16 disbelieved. There are people who, no matter what their 17 interest in the outcome of the case may be, would not testify
18 falsely. It is for you to decide based on your own perceptions 19 and common sense to what extent, if at all, the witness' bias
20 or interest has affected his or her testimony. You are not 21 required to disbelieve an interested witness. You may accept 22 as much of his or her testimony as you deem reliable and reject 23 as much as you deem unworthy of acceptance.

24 You have heard several witnesses who testified that 25 they were actually involved in certain of the crimes charged in

170918gayle1

Trial

1 the indictment or in other serious crimes.

2 You may properly consider the testimony of such 3 accomplices or cooperating witnesses - to whom I will refer as 4 cooperators. The government frequently must rely on 5 the testimony of cooperators who admit participating in alleged 6 crimes to detect and prosecute wrongdoers.

7 Because of the possible interest a cooperator may have 8 in testifying, however, his testimony - in this case, they were 9 all "hes" - his testimony should be scrutinized with special 10 care and caution. The fact that a witness is a cooperator can 11 be considered by you as bearing upon his credibility. It does 12 not follow, however, simply because a person has admitted to 13 participating in one or more crimes, that he is incapable of 14 giving a truthful version of what happened.

15 Like the testimony of any other witness, cooperating 16 witness testimony should be given such weight as it deserves in 17 light of the facts and circumstances before you, taking into 18 account the witness' demeanor and candor, the strength and 19 accuracy of his recollection, his background, and the extent to 20 which the testimony is or is not corroborated by other evidence 21 in the case.

22 You may consider whether a cooperator - like any other 23 witness called in this case - has an interest in the outcome of 24 the case or a motive to testify falsely, and if so, whether it 25 has affected his testimony.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 In evaluating the testimony of cooperating witnesses, 2 you should ask yourselves whether they would or believe they 3 would benefit more by lying or by telling the truth. Was 4 their testimony made up in any way because they believed or 5 hoped that they would somehow receive favorable treatment by 6 testifying falsely? Or did they believe that their interests
7 would best be served by testifying truthfully? If you believe 8 that the witness was motivated by hopes of personal gain, was 9 the motivation one that would cause him to lie or was it one 10 that would cause him to tell the truth? Did this motivation 11 color his testimony?

12 You heard testimony about various agreements between 13 the government and the witnesses. You should not be concerned 14 with why the government made an agreement with a witness. Your 15 sole concern is whether a witness has given truthful testimony 16 here in this courtroom before you. In making that 17 determination, you may consider the terms of the agreement 18 between the witness and the government, and all the surrounding 19 facts and circumstances.

20 If you find that the testimony was false, you should 21 reject it. If, however, after a cautious and careful 22 examination of a cooperator's testimony and demeanor on the 23 witness stand, you are satisfied that the witness told the 24 truth, you should accept it as credible and act on it 25 accordingly.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 As with any witness, let me emphasize that the issue
2 of credibility need not be decided in an all-or-nothing 3 fashion. Even if you find that a witness testified falsely in 4 one part, you still may accept his testimony in other parts or 5 you may disregard all of it. That is a determination entirely 6 for you.

7 You are instructed that you are to draw no conclusions 8 or inferences of any kind about the guilt of the defendant on 9 trial from the fact that one or more prosecution witnesses 10 pleaded guilty to similar charges. The decision of those 11 witnesses to plead guilty was a personal decision those 12 witnesses made about their own guilt. It may not be used by 13 you in any way as evidence against or unfavorable to the 14 defendant on trial here.

15 You've heard evidence that a witness made a statement 16 on an earlier occasion which counsel argued is inconsistent
17 with the witness' trial testimony. Unless the prior statement 18 was sworn testimony or is the statement of a party, evidence of 19 a prior inconsistent statement is not to be considered by you 20 as affirmative evidence bearing on the guilt of the defendant.
21 Evidence of the prior inconsistent statement was placed before 22 you for the more limited purpose of helping you decide whether 23 to believe the trial testimony of the witness who contradicted 24 himself or herself. If you find that the witness made an 25 earlier statement that conflicts with his or her

170918gayle1

Trial

1 trial testimony, you may consider that fact in deciding how 2 much of his or her trial testimony, if any, to believe.

3 In making this determination, you may consider whether 4 the witness purposely made a false statement or whether it was 5 an innocent mistake; whether the inconsistency concerns an 6 important fact or whether it had to do with a small detail; 7 whether the witness had an explanation for the inconsistency;
8 and whether that explanation appealed to your common sense.

9 It is exclusively your duty, based upon all the 10 evidence and your own good judgment, to determine whether the 11 prior statement was inconsistent, and if so, how much, if any, 12 weight is to be given to the inconsistent statement -- sorry, 13 let me try that again.

14 It is exclusively your duty, based upon all the 15 evidence and your own good judgment, to determine whether the 16 prior statement was inconsistent, and if so, how much, if any, 17 weight to be given to the inconsistent statement in determining 18 the credibility of the witness.

19 The defendant in this case did not testify. Under our 20 Constitution, a defendant in a criminal case has no obligation 21 to testify or to present any evidence, because it is the 22 government's burden to prove a defendant guilty beyond a 23 reasonable doubt. A defendant is never required to prove that 24 he is innocent.

25 Therefore, you must not attach any significance to the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 fact that the defendant did not testify. No adverse inference 2 against the defendant may be drawn by you because he did not 3 take the witness stand, and you may not consider that fact in 4 any way in your deliberations in the jury room.

5 You have heard testimony of some witnesses who were 6 law enforcement officers during the events at issue in this 7 trial. The law is that the testimony of a witness who is or 8 was employed by the government is not deserving of more or less 9 consideration or greater or lesser weight than that of any 10 other witness.

11 You have heard evidence during the trial that 12 witnesses have discussed the facts of the case and 13 their testimony with the lawyers before the witnesses appeared 14 in court. You may consider that fact when you are evaluating a 15 witness' credibility, but there is nothing either unusual or 16 improper about a witness meeting with lawyers before 17 testifying. Such consultation conserves your time and the 18 Court's time. In fact, it would be unusual for a lawyer to 19 call a witness without such consultations. The weight, if any, 20 you give to the fact or the nature of the witness' preparation 21 for his or her testimony, or the number of times the witness 22 met with the attorney, is a matter completely within your 23 discretion.

24 The indictment alleges that certain acts occurred on 25 or about various dates. It is not necessary, however, for the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 government to prove that the alleged crimes were committed on 2 exactly those dates. It is sufficient if the crimes charged 3 are shown to have been committed on or within approximately the 4 dates charged in the indictment.

5 I gave you various limiting instructions from time to 6 time during the trial, and you must follow those instructions 7 during your deliberations.

8 There's been testimony before you about the use of 9 informants. Use of informants is lawful, and evidence obtained 10 by the use of informants is properly considered by you.
11 Whether you approve or disapprove should not enter into your 12 deliberations.

13 You've heard testimony about evidence seized in 14 searches of various people and places. Evidence obtained from 15 these searches was lawful, properly admitted in this case, and 16 may properly be considered by you. Whether you approve or 17 disapprove of how it was obtained should not enter into your 18 deliberations.

19 Audio and video recordings of various conversations 20 and events have been admitted into evidence. Whether you 21 approve or disapprove of the recording of those conversations 22 may not enter your deliberations. I instruct you that these 23 recordings were made in a lawful manner, that no one's rights 24 were violated, that the government's use of this evidence is 25 lawful, and that it was properly admitted into evidence at this

170918gayle1

Trial

1 trial. You must, therefore, regardless of any personal 2 opinions, give this evidence full consideration along with all 3 the other evidence in the case in determining whether the 4 government has proved beyond a reasonable doubt the guilt of 5 the defendant.

6 You have heard what is called expert testimony from 7 various witnesses. Actually, now that I think about it, just 8 one, the chemist. An expert is allowed to express an opinion 9 on those matters about which he has special knowledge and 10 training. Expert testimony is presented to you on the theory 11 that someone who is experienced in the field can assist you in 12 understanding the evidence or in reaching an independent 13 decision on the facts.

14 In weighing an expert's testimony, you may consider 15 the expert's qualifications, opinions, and reasons for 16 testifying, as well as all of the other considerations that 17 ordinarily apply when you are deciding whether or not to 18 believe a witness' testimony.

19 You may give the expert testimony whatever weight, if 20 any, you find it deserves in light of all the evidence in this 21 case. You should not, however, accept a witness' testimony 22 merely because he is an expert, nor should you substitute it 23 for your own reason, judgment, and common sense. The 24 determination of the facts in this case rests solely with you.

25 It is the duty of the attorney for each side of the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 case to object when the other side offers testimony or other 2 evidence which the attorney believes is not admissible.
3 Counsel also have the right and duty to ask the Court to make 4 rulings of law. All those questions of law must be decided by 5 me. You should not show any prejudice against an attorney, or 6 his or her client, because the attorney objected to the 7 admissibility of evidence, or asked for a conference out of the 8 hearing of the jury, or asked the Court for a ruling on the 9 law.

10 As I already indicated, my rulings on the 11 admissibility of evidence do not indicate any opinion about the 12 weight or effect of such evidence. You are the sole judges of 13 the credibility of all witnesses and the weight and effect of 14 all evidence. If, however, I sustained an objection to any 15 evidence or if I offered evidence stricken, that evidence must 16 be entirely ignored.

17 You may not draw any inference, favorable or 18 unfavorable, toward the government or the defendant from the 19 fact that any person was not named as a defendant in this case, 20 and you may not speculate as to the reasons why other people 21 are not on trial before you now.

22 There are people whose names you heard during the 23 course of the trial, but who did not appear to testify. I 24 instruct you that each party had an equal opportunity or lack 25 of opportunity to call any of these witnesses. Therefore, you

170918gayle1

Trial

1 should not draw any inferences or reach any conclusions about 2 what they would have testified to had they been called. Their 3 absence should not affect your judgment in any way. You should 4 remember my instruction, however, that the law does not impose 5 on a defendant in a criminal case the burden or duty of calling 6 any witnesses or producing any evidence.

7 You heard reference, in the arguments and 8 cross-examination of defense counsel in this case, to the fact 9 that certain investigative techniques were or were not used by 10 the government or particular investigative steps were or were 11 not taken by the government. There is no legal requirement 12 that the government prove its case through any particular 13 means. While you are to carefully consider the evidence 14 adduced by the government and whether it is sufficient, you are 15 not to speculate as to why they used the techniques they did or 16 why they did not use other techniques. The government is not 17 on trial. Your concern is to determine whether, on the 18 evidence or lack of evidence, the government has proven its 19 case beyond a reasonable doubt.

20 Some of the exhibits were charts, tables, and maps.
21 They are not direct evidence. They are summaries of the 22 evidence. They are a visual representation of information or 23 data as set forth either in the testimony of a witness or in a 24 stipulation or in documents. They're admitted as aids to you 25 in your deliberations.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 It is up to you whether those charts fairly and 2 correctly present the information in the testimony and the 3 documents. To the extent the charts conform to what you 4 determine the underlying evidence to be, you may accept them.

5 The question of possible punishment of the defendant
6 may not enter into or influence your deliberations. The duty 7 of imposing a sentence rests exclusively upon the Court. That 8 means me. Your function is to weigh the evidence in the case 9 and to determine whether the defendant is guilty as to each 10 charged count beyond a reasonable doubt, solely on the basis of 11 such evidence. Under your oath as jurors, you cannot allow a 12 consideration of the punishment which may be imposed upon the 13 defendant, if he is convicted, to influence your verdict in any 14 way or in any sense enter into your deliberations.

15 Let us now turn to the charges in the indictment 16 against the defendant Tyrin Gayle, also known as "Spazzo."

17 I remind you that the indictment merely describes the 18 charges made against the defendant. It is an accusation. It 19 is not evidence. I will first summarize the offenses charged 20 in the indictment and then explain in detail the elements of 21 each of the offenses. There are seven counts in the 22 indictment.

23 Count One is a charge of conspiracy to violate the 24 Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations, or RICO, Act.
25 It alleges that from at least in or about 2015, up to and

170918gayle1

Trial

1 including about May 2016, the defendant and others conspired, 2 or agreed, to conduct and participate in the conduct of the 3 affairs of a racketeering enterprise - named in the indictment 4 as the Yellow Tape Money Gang, or "YTMG" - through a series of 5 specific criminal acts alleged to constitute a pattern of 6 racketeering activity, consisting of multiple acts involving 7 murder, including conspiracy to murder and attempted murder, in 8 violation of New York Penal Law Sections 20.00, 105.15, 110.00, 9 and 125.25, and the distribution of controlled substances
10 including, crack cocaine and heroin, in violation of Sections 11 812, 841(a)(1), 841(b)(1)(A), and 846 of Title 18 of the United 12 States Code.

13 Don't panic, I'm going to explain all of that.

14 Count Two charges that on December 11, 2015, the 15 defendant attempted to murder, and aided and abetted the 16 attempted murder of, members of a rival gang in the vicinity of 17 South Street and Liberty Street in Newburgh, New York, in aid
18 of the activity of YTMG.

19 Count Three alleges that on February 21, 2016, the 20 defendant assaulted and attempted to murder, and aided and 21 abetted the assault and the attempted murder of, an individual 22 in the vicinity of South Street and Chambers Street in 23 Newburgh, New York, in aid of the activity of YTMG.

24 Count Four charges that from in or about 2015, through 25 May 2016, the defendant conspired (that is, agreed) to

170918gayle1

Trial

1 distribute and possess with intent to distribute at least 280
2 grams of crack cocaine.

3 Count Five charges that from in or about 2015 through 4 May 2016, the defendant employed a minor in the commission of a 5 drug offense.

6 Count Six charges that from in or about 2015 through 7 May 2016, the defendant used, carried, possessed, brandished, 8 and discharged firearms, and aided and abetted the use,
9 carrying, possession, brandishing, and discharge of firearms
10 during, and in relation to, the racketeering conspiracy charged 11 in Count One and the narcotics conspiracy charged in Count 12 Four.

13 Count Seven charges that in or about 2017, the 14 defendant attempted to obstruct justice by tampering with a 15 witness.

16 I will go over each of these counts, and the elements 17 of each, in more detail in a few minutes, but first I will 18 explain the structure of the charges and theories of criminal 19 liability.

20 As you can tell, the indictment contains several 21 charges - charges, for example, involving narcotics 22 distribution, attempted murder, and firearms use. The 23 government, as it is entitled to do, has brought charges 24 relating to the same underlying conduct under more than one 25 criminal statute, and therefore, you might say under more than

170918gayle1

Trial

1 one theory of criminal liability. For example, the alleged 2 distribution of drugs, that is the basis of the conspiracy 3 charged in Count Four, can also be considered as part of the 4 alleged pattern of racketeering in Count One.

5 A consequence of the indictment containing charges 6 brought under multiple statutes is that you will need to be 7 instructed on the legal elements and principals applicable to 8 each statute and theory of liability. I will be instructing 9 you on the legal elements, definitions, and principals 10 applicable to each type of charge. In other words, I will 11 provide you with all the instructions you need to decide 12 whether the government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt 13 each of the necessary elements on each of the charges in the 14 indictment.

15 You will need to consider each charge against the 16 defendant separately and determine whether the government has 17 carried its burden of proof with respect to that charge.

18 I will provide you with a verdict form, and you will 19 need to report on the verdict form the results of your 20 deliberations on each count. To do so, you will need to keep 21 track during your deliberations of which charge you are 22 considering, and, even more specifically, the legal elements 23 applicable to the charge. You should be able to do that using 24 the copies of my instructions and of the verdict form that you 25 will have with you in the jury room. You may also have seen

170918gayle1

Trial

1 that these instructions contain a detailed table of contents, 2 so as you consider each count, you will easily be able to find 3 the discussion of that count, including the elements the 4 government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt and an 5 explanation of these elements. The verdict form will be 6 helpful in organizing your discussion and keeping track of your 7 decisions.

8 There are generally three theories under which a 9 defendant can be found guilty of -- we left that word out -- 10 can be found guilty of criminal conduct: personal liability, 11 aiding and abetting liability, or Pinkerton or co-conspirator
12 liability.

13 Personal liability is just like it sounds. A 14 defendant can be found guilty of criminal conduct if the 15 government proves that he himself personally committed the 16 charged offense.

17 Aiding and abetting liability means that a defendant
18 can be found guilty if the government proves that the defendant 19 aided and abetted another person who committed the charged 20 offense. I will instruct you on the elements of aiding and 21 abetting liability in a moment.

22 Finally, Pinkerton liability - so called because it
23 was discussed in a case called Pinkerton v. United States - 24 refers to the law that under certain circumstances, a jury may, 25 but is not required to, hold a member of a conspiracy liable

170918gayle1

Trial

1 for a crime committed by a co-conspirator. Before you consider 2 Pinkerton liability as to a particular count, you must first 3 consider whether the defendant was actually part of a 4 conspiracy with the person who personally committed the crime.
5 To this end, and before I instruct you on each count, I will 6 now instruct you on the law of conspiracy.

7 The law of conspiracy applies to Count One, the charge 8 of conspiracy to violate the RICO statute, and Count Four, the 9 charge of conspiracy to distribute and possess with intent to 10 distribute at least 280 grams of crack cocaine.

11 A conspiracy is a kind of criminal part partnership - 12 an agreement of two or more persons to join together to 13 accomplish some unlawful purpose.

14 Conspiracy simply means agreement. And the crime of 15 conspiracy to violate a federal law is an independent offense, 16 separate and distinct from the actual violation of any specific 17 federal laws. Such actual violations are called "substantive 18 crimes." You may find the defendant guilty of the crime of 19 conspiracy even if you find that the substantive crimes which 20 were the objects of the conspiracy were never actually 21 committed. Congress has deemed conspiracy, standing alone, a 22 separate crime, even if the conspiracy is not successful.

23 To sustain its burden of proof with respect to the 24 RICO Conspiracy and Narcotics Distribution Conspiracy 25 allegations, that is Counts One and Four, the government must

170918gayle1

Trial

1 prove beyond a reasonable doubt the following two elements:

2 First, the existence of the charged conspiracy - that 3 is, the existence of an agreement or understanding to commit 4 the unlawful objects of such conspiracy; and

5 Second, that the defendant knowingly became a member 6 of the conspiracy, with intent to further its illegal - that 7 is, with the intent to achieve the illegal object of the 8 charged conspiracy.

9 Now I will separately discuss each of these elements.

10 To prove the existence of a conspiracy, the government 11 is not required to show that two or more people sat around a 12 table and entered into a solemn pact, orally or in writing, 13 stating that they had formed a conspiracy to violate the law 14 and spelling out all the details. Common sense tells you that 15 when people agree to enter into a criminal conspiracy, much is 16 left to unexpressed understanding. It is rare that a 17 conspiracy can be proven by direct evidence of an explicit 18 agreement.

19 To show that a conspiracy existed, the evidence must 20 show beyond a reasonable doubt that two or more persons in some 21 way or manner, either explicitly or implicitly, came to an 22 understanding to violate the law and to accomplish an unlawful 23 plan.

24 In determining whether there has been an unlawful 25 agreement as alleged in the indictment, you may consider the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 actions of all the alleged co-conspirators that were taken to 2 carry out the apparent criminal purpose. The only evidence 3 that may be available with respect to the existence of a 4 conspiracy is that of disconnected acts on the part of the 5 alleged individual co-conspirators. When taken all together 6 and considered as a whole, however, you may conclude - or may 7 not, as your good judgment dictates - that that warrants the 8 inference that a conspiracy existed just as conclusively as 9 more direct proof, such as evidence of an express agreement.

10 The object of a conspiracy is the illegal goal that 11 the conspirators agree or hope to achieve. I will describe the 12 object of a particular conspiracy when instructing you on that 13 conspiracy.

14 If you conclude that the government has proven beyond 15 a reasonable doubt that the conspiracy you are considering 16 existed, and that the conspiracy had as its object one of the 17 illegal purposes charged in the indictment, then you must next 18 determine whether the defendant intentionally participated in 19 that conspiracy with knowledge of its unlawful purposes, and 20 with the intent to further its unlawful objectives.

21 The government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt 22 that the defendant knowingly and intentionally entered into the 23 conspiracy with criminal intent - that is, with a purpose to 24 violate the law - and that he agreed to take part in the 25 conspiracy to promote and cooperate in its unlawful objectives.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 "Unlawfully" simply means contrary to law. A 2 defendant does not need to have known that he was breaking any 3 particular law, but he must have been aware of the generally 4 unlawful nature of his acts.

5 The terms "knowingly" and "intentionally" mean that to 6 find that a defendant joined the conspiracy, you must conclude 7 beyond a reasonable doubt that in doing so, he knew what he was 8 doing; in other words, that the defendant took the actions in 9 question deliberately and voluntarily. An act is done 10 "knowingly" and "intentionally" if it is done deliberately and 11 purposely; that is, the defendant's acts must have been the 12 product of the defendant's conscious objective, rather than the 13 product of a mistake or accident, or mere negligence, or some 14 other innocent reason.

15 Science has not yet devised a manner of looking into a 16 person's mind and knowing what that person is thinking. The 17 government has introduced into evidence certain acts and 18 conversations alleged to have taken place with the defendant or 19 in his presence. The government contends that these acts and 20 conversations show beyond a reasonable doubt the defendant's 21 knowledge of the unlawful purpose -- I'm sorry -- the 22 defendant's knowledge of the unlawful purposes of the 23 conspiracy. The defendant denies that he was a member of the 24 conspiracy.

25 It is not necessary for the government to show that

170918gayle1

Trial

1 the defendant was fully informed as to all the details of the 2 conspiracy for you to infer knowledge on his part. To have 3 guilty knowledge, the defendant need not know the full extent 4 of the conspiracy or all of the activities of all of its 5 participants. It is not necessary for the defendant to know
6 every other member of the conspiracy. In fact, the defendant
7 may know only one other member of the conspiracy and still be a 8 co-conspirator. Nor is it necessary for a defendant to receive 9 any monetary benefit from his participation in the conspiracy, 10 or have a financial stake in the outcome. It is enough if he 11 participated as a conspirator unlawfully, intentionally, and 12 knowingly as I have defined those terms.

13 The duration and extent of the defendant's 14 participation has no bearing on the issue of the defendant's 15 guilt. He need not have joined the conspiracy at the outset.
16 With regard to liability for conspiracy (although not 17 substantive offenses), the defendant may have joined the 18 conspiracy at any time in its progress, and will still be held 19 responsible for all that was done before he joined if those 20 acts were reasonably foreseeable and within the scope of the 21 defendant's agreement, and for all that was done during the 22 conspiracy's existence while he was a member. Each member of a 23 conspiracy may perform separate and distinct acts. Some 24 conspirators play major roles, while others play minor roles in 25 the scheme. An equal role is not what the law requires. In

170918gayle1

Trial

1 fact, even a single act may be sufficient to draw the defendant
2 within the scope of the conspiracy.

3 I want to caution you, however, that a person's mere 4 association with a member of a conspiracy does not make that 5 person a member of the conspiracy, even when that association 6 is coupled with knowledge that a conspiracy is taking place.
7 For example, mere presence at the scene of a crime, even 8 coupled with knowledge that a crime is taking place, is not 9 sufficient to support a conviction for conspiracy. In other 10 words, knowledge without agreement and participation is not 11 sufficient. What is necessary is that the defendant has 12 participated in the conspiracy with knowledge of its unlawful 13 purposes and with an intent to aid in the accomplishment of its 14 unlawful objectives. A person may know, or be friendly with, a 15 conspirator without being a conspirator himself. Mere 16 similarity of conduct or the fact that persons may have 17 assembled together and discussed common aims and interests does 18 not necessarily establish membership in a conspiracy.

19 I also want to caution you that mere knowledge of or 20 acquiescence to the unlawful plan - without participation in it 21 - is not sufficient. Moreover, the fact that the acts of the 22 defendant without knowledge merely happened to further the 23 purposes or objectives of the conspiracy, does not make the 24 defendant a member. More is required under the law. The 25 defendant must have participated with knowledge of at least

170918gayle1

Trial

1 some of the purposes or objectives of the conspiracy and with 2 the intention of aiding in the accomplishment of those unlawful 3 ends.

4 In sum, you must find beyond a reasonable doubt that 5 the defendant, with an understanding of the unlawful nature of 6 the conspiracy, intentionally engaged, advised or assisted in 7 the conspiracy for the purpose of furthering an illegal 8 undertaking. The defendant thereby becomes a knowing and 9 willing participant in the unlawful agreement - that is to say, 10 a conspirator.

11 A conspiracy, once formed, is presumed to continue 12 until either its objective is accomplished or there is some 13 affirmative act of termination by its members. Similarly, once 14 a person is found to be a member of a conspiracy, he is 15 presumed to continue his membership in the venture until its 16 termination.

17 It is not essential that the government prove that a 18 particular conspiracy alleged in the indictment started or 19 ended on any of the specific dates described for that 20 conspiracy. It is sufficient if you find that the conspiracy 21 was formed and that it existed for some time around or within 22 the dates set forth in the indictment.

23 You will see that the pattern of racketeering activity
24 charged in Count One - which is the conspiracy to violate the 25 RICO Act, which I will explain in more detail shortly - is

170918gayle1

Trial

1 alleged to have included conspiracy to murder under New York
2 Penal Law. Under New York Penal Law Section 105.15, a person 3 is guilty of conspiracy to commit a crime when, quote, "with 4 the intent that [such crime be committed], he agrees with one 5 or more persons to engage in, or cause the performance of such 6 conduct."

7 To find that a defendant participated in a conspiracy 8 under New York law, the two elements of federal conspiracy I've 9 just described must be met, and one additional element must be 10 met, the so-called "overt act" requirement. New York Penal Law 11 Section 105.20 provides, quote, "[a] person shall not be 12 convicted of conspiracy unless an overt act is alleged and 13 proved to have been committed by one of the conspirators in 14 furtherance of the conspiracy." An overt act is an independent 15 act that tends to carry out the conspiracy, but need not 16 necessarily be the object of the crime. There's no requirement 17 under the RICO conspiracy or narcotics conspiracy laws that an 18 overt act be committed, but New York's conspiracy law does not 19 punish agreement alone without some proof that the 20 co-conspirators intended to convert planning into action. The 21 function of the overt act requirement is simply to manifest 22 that the conspiracy is at work.

23 You may consider as evidence against the defendant the 24 acts and statements of those who were co-conspirators of the 25 defendant. The reason for this rule has to do with the nature

170918gayle1

1 of the crime of conspiracy. A conspiracy is often referred to 2 as a partnership in crime. Thus, as in other types of 3 partnerships, when people enter into a conspiracy to accomplish 4 an unlawful end, each member becomes an agent for the other 5 conspirators in carrying out the conspiracy. Accordingly, the 6 reasonably foreseeable acts, declarations, statements and 7 omissions of any member of the conspiracy in furtherance of the 8 common purpose of the conspiracy are deemed, under the law, to 9 be the acts of all the members, and all the members are 10 responsible for such acts, declarations, statements and 11 omissions.

12 If you find, beyond a reasonable doubt, that the 13 defendant was a member of a charged conspiracy, then any acts 14 done or statements made in furtherance of that conspiracy by 15 persons also found by you to have been members of that 16 conspiracy may be considered. This is so, even if the acts 17 were done or statements made in the defendant's absence and 18 without his knowledge. But before you may consider the 19 statements or acts of a co-conspirator in deciding the issue of 20 the defendant's guilt, you must first determine that the acts 21 and statements were made during the existence and in 22 furtherance of the unlawful scheme. If the acts were done or 23 the statements were made by someone whom you do not find to 24 have been a member of the conspiracy, or if they were not said 25 or done in furtherance of the conspiracy, they may not be

170918gayle1

Trial

1 considered by you as evidence against the defendant.

2 We now turn to Pinkerton liability - that is, the 3 theory under which a defendant who is a member of a conspiracy 4 may be held liable for a crime committed by a co-conspirator.
5 Pinkerton liability should be considered by you only in 6 connection with Counts Two, Three and Six, and only if you do 7 not find that the defendant personally committed or aided and 8 abetted in the commission of those offenses.

9 If you find that the defendant was part of one of the 10 conspiracies alleged in the indictment - that is, if you find 11 that the government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt the 12 elements I just described as to a particular conspiracy - then 13 you may, but are not required to, find the defendant liable for 14 a substantive offense committed by a co-conspirator, provided 15 that the government has proven the following elements beyond a 16 reasonable doubt:

17 First, that a crime charged in the substantive count 18 you are considering was committed;

19 Second, that the person or persons you find actually 20 committed the crime were members of the corresponding 21 conspiracy you found existed;

22 Third, that the substantive crime was committed 23 pursuant to the common plan and understanding you found to 24 exist among the conspirators;

25 Fourth, that the defendant was a member of the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 conspiracy at the time the substantive crime you are 2 considering was committed (that is, the defendant had entered 3 into the conspiracy); and

4 Fifth, that the defendant could reasonably have 5 foreseen that the substantive crime you are considering might 6 be committed by his co-conspirators.

7 If you find the government has proven all five of 8 these elements beyond a reasonable doubt, then you may find the 9 defendant guilty of a substantive offense charged against him, 10 even if he did not personally participate in the acts 11 constituting the crime, and even if he did not have actual 12 knowledge of it.

13 Aiding and abetting liability is its own theory of 14 criminal liability. In effect, it is a theory of liability 15 that permits a defendant to be convicted of a specified crime 16 if the defendant, while not himself committing the crime, 17 assisted another person or persons in committing the crime. I 18 will instruct you on both federal and New York aiding and 19 abetting law because the indictment alleges aiding and abetting
20 violations of both federal and New York statutes.

21 Under the federal aiding and abetting statute, quote, 22 "[w]hoever commits an offense against the United States or 23 aids, abets, counsels, commands, induces or procures its 24 commission, is punishable as a principal." In other words, a 25 person who aids or abets another to commit an offense is just

170918gayle1

Trial

1 as guilty of that offense as if he committed it himself.

2 Accordingly, you may find the defendant guilty of a crime if 3 you find that the government has proven beyond a reasonable 4 doubt that another person actually committed the crime and that 5 the defendant aided and abetted that person in committing the 6 crime.

7 As you can see, the first requirement is that another
8 person has committed the crime charged. Obviously, no one can 9 be convicted of aiding and abetting the criminal acts of 10 another if no crime was committed by the other person. But if 11 you do find that a crime was committed, then you must consider 12 whether the defendant aided or abetted the commission of the 13 crime.

14 To aid or abet another to commit a crime, it is 15 necessary that the defendant knowingly associated himself in 16 some way with the crime charged, and that he knowingly 17 committed some act to contribute to the success of the crime.
18 A person acts knowingly if he acts voluntarily and 19 deliberately, and not because of mistake or accident, mere 20 negligence or other innocent reason. The government must prove 21 that the defendant engaged in some affirmative conduct for the 22 specific purpose of bringing about the crime.

23 The mere presence of a defendant where a crime is 24 being committed, even coupled with knowledge by the defendant 25 that a crime is being committed, or the mere acquiescence by a

170918gayle1

Trial

1 defendant in the criminal conduct of others, even with guilty
2 knowledge, is not sufficient to establish aiding and abetting.
3 To be found guilty, the government must prove that an aider and 4 abettor took some conscious action that furthered the 5 commission of the crime and that he did so with the intent to 6 bring about the crime. To determine whether the defendant
7 aided and abetting a crime, ask yourself: Did he participate 8 in the crime charged as something he wished to bring about?
9 Did he associate himself with the criminal venture knowingly?
10 Did he seek by his actions to make the criminal venture
11 succeed? If so, then the defendant is an aider and abettor, 12 and therefore guilty of the offense. If not, then the 13 defendant is not an aider and abettor, and therefore not guilty 14 under an aiding and abetting theory.

15 You will see that the pattern of racketeering activity
16 charged in Count One, which I'll explain in a few moments, is 17 alleged to have included the aiding and abetting of crimes
18 under the New York Penal Law. New York Penal Law Section 20.0
19 applies to aiding and abetting and provides as follows: Quote, 20 "When one person engages in conduct which constitutes an 21 offense, another person is criminally liable for such conduct 22 when, acting with the mental culpability required for the 23 commission thereof, he solicits, requests, commands, importunes 24 or intentionally aids such person to engage in such conduct."

25 Under that definition, mere presence at the scene of a

170918gayle1

Trial

1 crime, even with knowledge that the crime is taking place, (or 2 mere association with a perpetrator of a crime), does not by 3 itself make a defendant criminally liable for that crime.

4 For the defendant to be held criminally liable for the 5 conduct of another that constitutes an offense, you must find 6 beyond a reasonable doubt:

7 First, that the defendant solicited, requested, 8 commanded, importuned, or intentionally aided that person to 9 engage in the conduct; and

10 Second, that the defendant did so with the state of 11 mind required for the commission of the offense.

12 Count One, the RICO conspiracy statute -- excuse me -- 13 the RICO conspiracy count, charges the defendant with 14 conspiring, that is, agreeing, to conduct or participate in the 15 conduct of the affairs of the enterprise known as the Yellow 16 Tape Money Gang -- sorry, I messed that up.

17 Count One, the RICO conspiracy count, charges the 18 defendant with conspiring, that is, agreeing, to conduct or 19 participate in the conduct of the affairs of an enterprise 20 known as the Yellow Tape Money Gang enterprise through an 21 alleged pattern of racketeering activity consisting of acts 22 involving murder (including conspiracy to murder, attempted 23 murder, and aiding and abetting attempted murder), and acts 24 involving distribution of controlled substances (including 25 distribution of crack cocaine and heroin, possession of crack

170918gayle1

Trial

1 cocaine and heroin with intent to distribute, aiding and 2 abetting the same and conspiracy to do the same).

3 Count One alleges that the defendant conspired to 4 violate the RICO statute, Section 1962(c) of Title 18 of the 5 United States Code, which makes it a crime for, quote:

6 "Any person employed by or associated with any 7 enterprise engaged in, or the activities of which affect, 8 interstate or foreign commerce, to conduct or participate, 9 directly or indirectly, in the conduct of such enterprise's 10 affairs through a pattern of racketeering activity..."

11 The RICO statute, in essence, makes it a crime for a 12 person to participate in the conduct of an enterprise's affairs 13 through a pattern of certain violation of laws known as 14 "racketeering acts." These alleged violations, or racketeering 15 acts, may be violations of federal or state law, and I will 16 discuss them shortly.

17 The word "racketeering" may have certain implications 18 in our society. Do not infer anything from it. The use of the 19 term in the applicable statute and here in this courtroom 20 should not be regarded as having anything to do with your 21 determination of whether the guilt of the defendant has been 22 proven beyond a reasonable doubt. The term is merely a term
23 used by Congress to describe the statute.

24 For Count One, the government must prove beyond a 25 reasonable doubt each of the following elements:

170918gayle1

Trial

1 First, that the enterprise alleged in the indictment 2 existed;

3 Second, that the enterprise affected interstate or 4 foreign commerce;

5 Third, that the defendant was employed by or 6 associated with the enterprise; and

7 Fourth, that the defendant willfully and knowingly 8 agreed with at least one other person to participate directly 9 or indirectly in the conduct of the affairs of that enterprise 10 through a pattern of racketeering activity - that is, that 11 either the defendant or a co-conspirator would commit at least 12 two acts of racketeering.

13 The first element that the government must prove 14 beyond a reasonable doubt is that the alleged enterprise, the 15 Yellow Tape Money Gang - in fact existed.

16 Under the RICO statute, an enterprise may be a group 17 of people informally associated together for a common purpose 18 of engaging in a course of conduct. This group may be 19 organized for a legitimate and lawful purpose, or it may be 20 organized for an unlawful purpose. In addition to having a 21 common purpose, this group of people must have a core of 22 personnel who function as a continuing unit. It does not have 23 to be a commonly recognized legal entity, such as a 24 corporation, a trade union, a partnership, or the like. The 25 statute makes clear that an enterprise may be "a group of

170918gayle1

Trial

1 individuals [who are] associated in fact although not a legal 2 entity." Furthermore, the enterprise must continue to exist in 3 substantially similar form through the period charged. This 4 does not mean that the membership must remain exactly 5 identical, but the enterprise must have a recognizable core 6 that continues during a substantial period within the time 7 frame charged in the indictment.

8 Here, the enterprise alleged in the indictment to have 9 existed is comprised of members and associates of the Yellow 10 Tape Money Gang, and it is alleged to have existed from at 11 least in or about 2015, up to and including in or about 12 May 2016.

13 If you find that this was a group of people 14 characterized by (1) a common purpose or purposes, (2) an 15 ongoing formal or informal organization or structure, and (3)
16 core personnel who functioned as a continuing unit during a 17 substantial period within the time frame charged in the 18 indictment, then you may find that an enterprise existed.

19 The second element that the government must prove 20 beyond a reasonable doubt is that the enterprise was engaged in 21 or it had an effect upon interstate or foreign commerce.
22 Interstate commerce includes the movement of goods, services, 23 and individuals between states.

24 The government must prove that the enterprise engaged 25 in interstate commerce or that its activities affected

170918gayle1

Trial

1 interstate commerce. The enterprise or the racketeering 2 activities of its members must have affected interstate or 3 foreign commerce in some minimal way. The effect need not be 4 substantial; even a minimal effect is enough. Nor is it 5 necessary that the effect on interstate commerce have been 6 adverse. It is not necessary to prove that the acts of the 7 defendant affected interstate commerce, as long as the acts of 8 the enterprise itself had such an effect. It is sufficient, 9 for example, if, in the course of the racketeering activities, 10 members of the enterprise used weapons that had traveled in 11 interstate commerce, trafficked in narcotics, traveled 12 interstate themselves, or used telephone facilities interstate.
13 All narcotics activity, even purely local activity, has an 14 effect on interstate commerce. So if you find that members of 15 the enterprise trafficked in narcotics as part of their 16 membership in the enterprise, you may find this element 17 satisfied.

18 Finally, the government is not required to prove that 19 the defendant knew he was affecting interstate commerce. All 20 that is necessary is that you find beyond a reasonable doubt 21 that the activities of the enterprise affected interstate or 22 foreign commerce in some minimal way.

23 The third element the government must prove beyond a 24 reasonable doubt is that the defendant was associated with or 25 employed by the enterprise. It is not required that the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 defendant have been associated with or employed by the 2 enterprise for the entire time that the enterprise existed. It
3 is required, however, that the government prove beyond a 4 reasonable doubt that at some time during the period indicated 5 in the indictment, the defendant was associated with or was 6 employed by the enterprise.

7 A defendant cannot be associated with or employed by 8 an enterprise if he does not know of the enterprise's existence
9 or the nature of its activities. Thus, to prove this element, 10 the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the 11 defendant knew of the existence of the enterprise and of the 12 general nature of its activities, and was connected to the 13 enterprise in some meaningful way.

14 To satisfy its burden of proof for the fourth 15 element, the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt 16 that the defendant knowingly and willfully agreed to 17 participate, directly or indirectly, in the affairs of the 18 enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity.

19 The government must prove that the defendant 20 participated in some manner in the overall affairs of the 21 enterprise and the objectives of the conspiracy, and that he 22 did so with the intent that he or another member or members of 23 the enterprise would commit at least two acts of racketeering, 24 of the types specified in the indictment as part of a pattern
25 of racketeering activity. I have previously defined

170918gayle1

Trial

1 "knowingly" and "intentionally" at pages 22-23, and you should 2 apply those definitions here. You should also apply by earlier 3 instructions on conspiracy on pages 20-28.

4 A pattern of racketeering activity requires at least 5 two acts of racketeering committed within ten years of one 6 another, excluding any period of imprisonment after the 7 commission of a prior act of racketeering.

8 That is a really complicated way of saying they must 9 be committed within ten years -- there must be at least two 10 acts of racketeering committed within ten years of each other, 11 and excluding any period of imprisonment.

12 To establish an agreement to commit a "pattern of 13 racketeering activity," as alleged in Count One of the 14 indictment, the government must prove three elements beyond a 15 reasonable doubt:

16 First, that the defendant agreed that a conspirator, 17 which could include the defendant or any other member of the 18 conspiracy, would intentionally commit, or cause, or aid and 19 abet the commission of, two or more racketeering acts of the 20 types alleged in the indictment. At the end of this 21 instruction, I will instruct you on the elements regarding each 22 of the charged categories of racketeering activity.

23 Second, that the racketeering acts had a "nexus" to 24 the enterprise and the racketeering acts are "related" to one 25 another. A racketeering act has a "nexus" to the enterprise if

170918gayle1

Trial

1 it has a meaningful connection to the enterprise. To be 2 "related," the racketeering acts must have the same or similar 3 purposes, results, participants, victims, or methods of 4 commission, or be otherwise interrelated by distinguishing 5 characteristics and not be merely isolated events. Two 6 racketeering acts may be "related" even though they are 7 dissimilar or not directly related to each other, provided that 8 the racketeering acts are related to the same enterprise. For 9 example, for both "nexus" and "relatedness" purposes, the 10 requisite relationship between the RICO enterprise and a 11 predicate racketeering act may be established by evidence that 12 the defendant was enabled to commit the racketeering act solely 13 by virtue of his position in the enterprise or involvement in 14 or control over its affairs, or by evidence that the 15 defendant's position in the enterprise facilitated his 16 commission of the racketeering act, or by evidence that the 17 racketeering act benefited the enterprise, or by evidence that 18 the racketeering act was authorized by the enterprise or by 19 evidence that the racketeering act promoted or furthered the 20 purpose of the enterprise.

21 Third, to establish a pattern of racketeering
22 activity, the government must prove that the racketeering acts 23 themselves either extended over a substantial period of time or 24 they posed or would pose a threat of continued criminal 25 activity. The government need not prove such a threat of

170918gayle1

Trial

1 continuity by any mathematical formula or by any particular 2 method of proof, but rather may prove it in a variety of ways.
3 For example, the threat of continued unlawful activity may be 4 established when the evidence shows that the racketeering acts 5 are part of a long-term association that exists for criminal 6 purposes, or when the racketeering acts are shown to be the 7 regular way of conducting the affairs of the enterprise.
8 Moreover, in determining whether the government has proven the 9 threat of continued unlawful activity, you are not limited to 10 consideration of the specific racketeering acts that the 11 defendant himself is alleged to have committed; rather, in 12 addition to considering such acts, you may also consider the 13 nature of the enterprise, and other unlawful activities of the 14 enterprise and its members viewed in their entirety, including 15 both charged and uncharged unlawful activities.

16 For the government to meet its burden of proof under 17 Count One, the government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt 18 that the defendant intended to further an endeavor which, if 19 completed, would have satisfied all the elements of a 20 substantive racketeering offense. The government is not 21 required to prove that the defendant personally committed or 22 agreed to commit any act of racketeering, nor is it required to 23 prove that any acts of racketeering actually occurred. Rather, 24 the government must prove that the defendant agreed to 25 participate in the enterprise with the knowledge and intent

170918gayle1

Trial

1 that at least one member of the racketeering conspiracy, which 2 could be the defendant or a co-conspirator, would commit at 3 least two racketeering acts in the conduct of the affairs of 4 the enterprise and that those acts would constitute a pattern
5 of racketeering activity as defined above.

6 Let me make clear that an enterprise is not the same
7 thing as a pattern of racketeering activity. To convict a 8 defendant under the RICO conspiracy statute, the government 9 must prove both that there was an enterprise and that the 10 enterprise's affairs were conducted through a person of 11 racketeering activity. As I have mentioned, the enterprise in 12 this case is alleged to be a group of individuals who 13 associated together for a common purpose of engaging in a 14 course of conduct. A pattern of racketeering activity, on the 15 other hand, is a series of criminal acts.

16 The existence of the enterprise is proved by evidence 17 of an ongoing organization, formal or informal, with a common 18 purpose and by evidence that various core personnel of the 19 group functioned as a continuing unit.

20 The pattern of racketeering activity, on the other 21 hand, is proven by evidence of a minimum of two acts of 22 racketeering that the participants in the enterprise committed 23 or aided and abetted. The proof used to establish those 24 separate elements may be the same or overlapping. For example, 25 if you find that an ongoing enterprise existed, the existence

170918gayle1

Trial

1 of this enterprise may help to establish that the separate 2 racketeering acts were part of a "pattern" of continuing 3 criminal activity. Nevertheless, you should bear in mind that 4 proof of an enterprise does not necessarily establish proof of 5 a pattern of racketeering activity, and vice versa. The 6 enterprise and the pattern of racketeering activity are 7 separate elements that must be proven by the government.

8 Finally, although you need not decide whether the 9 government agreed to the commission of any particular 10 racketeering act to convict the defendant of the RICO 11 conspiracy offense, you must be unanimous as to which type or 12 types of predicate racketeering activity the defendant agreed 13 would be committed; for example, at least two acts of attempted 14 murder or conspiracy to murder or two acts of drug-trafficking 15 or any combination thereof.

16 The government is not required to prove either that 17 the defendant agreed to commit two racketeering acts himself or 18 that he actually committed two such acts, although you may 19 consider evidence that he agreed to commit or actually did 20 commit such acts in determining whether he agreed to 21 participate in the conduct of the enterprise. Let me read this 22 sentence again.

23 Okay. I think the words "from proof" don't belong in 24 there. So, let me try the sentence again.

25 The government is not required to prove either that

170918gayle1

Trial

1 the defendant agreed to commit two racketeering acts themselves
2 or that he actually committed two such acts, although you may
3 consider evidence that he agreed to commit or actually did
4 commit such acts in determining whether he agreed to 5 participate in the conduct of the enterprise through a pattern 6 of racketeering activity.

7 In other words, what you're being asked to decide in 8 Count One is this: Did the defendant know about the activities 9 of the other members of the conspiracy, and unlawfully, 10 knowingly and willfully join in and participate and contribute 11 in some fashion to the goals of the conspiracy, knowing that he 12 or any of his co-conspirators would commit two or more charged 13 acts of racketeering as part of the conspiracy?

14 Now, let me turn to the specific racketeering acts 15 charged in Count One and the elements of those acts.

16 The indictment alleges that the following racketeering 17 acts were or were intended to be committed as part of a
18 conspiracy:

19 (a) multiple acts involving murder, including 20 conspiracy to murder, attempted murder, and aiding and abetting
21 attempted murder, in violation of New York Penal Law Sections 22 20.0, 105.15, 110.0, and 125.25; and

23 (b) multiple offenses involving the distribution of 24 controlled substances, including crack cocaine and heroin, in 25 violation of Sections 812, 841(a)(1), 841(b)(1)(A), and 846 of

170918gayle1

Trial

1 Title 18 of the United States Code.

2 The government must prove that within a ten-year 3 period (excluding any period of incarceration), two acts in 4 violation of these statutes were committed, or intended to be 5 committed by the defendant or a co-conspirator, as part of the 6 charged RICO conspiracy. You will note that each category of 7 predicate offenses includes a violation of more than one 8 specific law. To find that a given predicate offense was an 9 object of the charged RICO conspiracy, you need only find that 10 the object of the conspiracy involved the violation of at least 11 one of the specified statutes, but you must be unanimous as to 12 which one(s).

13 The defendant is not charged with actual murder, but I
14 will explain the elements for murder under New York Penal Law 15 Section 125.25 so that you may understand conspiracy and 16 attempt to murder.

17 The elements of murder under New York state law are:

18 First, that the individual caused the death of the 19 victim or aided and abetted the same; and 20 Second, that the individual did so with intent to 21 cause the death of the victim or another person.

22 A person intends to cause the death of another person 23 when his conscious objective is to cause the death of that 24 person. To prove that an individual caused the victim's death, 25 the government must prove that the individual's conduct was a

170918gayle1

Trial

1 sufficiently direct cause of the death of the victim or a
2 reasonably foreseeable result of that conduct. Intent does not 3 require premeditation or advance planning, but the intent to 4 cause death must exist at the time the individual engages in 5 the acts that caused death. Furthermore, there's no 6 requirement under the murder statute that the person who is 7 murdered be the same person who was intended to be murdered.
8 Thus, the intent element is satisfied when the perpetrator
9 intends to kill one person but instead kills another person.

10 In determining whether the defendant agreed as part of 11 the RICO conspiracy that he or a co-conspirator would commit or 12 attempt to commit acts involving murder in violation of New 13 York state law, you may apply the instructions on aiding and 14 abetting I gave you earlier. Thus, you may find that the RICO
15 conspiracy involved acts involving murder either because you 16 find that the defendant agreed that he or a co-conspirator
17 would commit or attempt to commit an act constituting murder 18 under New York law, or because you find that he agreed that he 19 or a co-conspirator would assist a third party in doing so.

20 New York Penal Law Section 110.00 provides that a 21 "person is guilty of an attempt to commit a crime" - here, 22 murder - "when, with intent to commit that crime, he engages in 23 conduct which tends to effect the commission of such crime."
24 The elements of attempted murder under New York state law are:

25 First, that the perpetrator intended to kill another

170918gayle1

Trial

1 person; and

2 Second, that perpetrator attempted to cause the death
3 of that person, meaning that the perpetrator engaged in conduct 4 which tended to effect the death of another person.

5 One is not guilty of an attempt to commit murder under 6 New York state law until on the verge of committing it. Mere 7 preparation is not sufficient. The acts committed by the 8 defendant, or those he is aiding and abetting, are required to 9 carry the project forward within dangerous proximity of the 10 criminal end to be attained.

11 The defendant is also charged as a predicate 12 racketeering act with conspiracy to commit murder under New 13 York Penal Law Section 105.15. For the government to prove 14 beyond a reasonable doubt that a person conspired to commit 15 murder under New York state law, the government must show:

16 First, that the individual agreed with one or more 17 other persons to engage in or cause the performance of a 18 murder;

19 Second, that the defendant did so with the intent that 20 such murder be performed;

21 Third, that the individual, or one of the people with 22 whom he agreed to engage in or cause the performance of the 23 conduct, committed an overt act in furtherance of the 24 conspiracy.

25 A person acts with intent that a murder be performed

170918gayle1

Trial

1 when his conscious objective or purpose is that the murder
2 should occur.

3 The agreement to engage in or cause the performance of 4 a crime is not itself an overt act. The overt act must be an 5 independent act that tends to carry out the conspiracy. The 6 overt act can be, but need not be, the commission of the crime 7 that was the object of the conspiracy.

8 Under New York law, it is no defense to a charge of 9 conspiracy that one or more of the individual's co-conspirators 10 could not be guilty of conspiracy or the object crime, whether 11 because of criminal irresponsibility or other legal incapacity 12 or exemption; unawareness of the criminal nature of the 13 agreement or the object conduct or the defendant's criminal 14 purpose; or other factors precluding the mental state required 15 for the commission of conspiracy or the object crime. In other 16 words, a person may be guilty of conspiracy even though one or 17 more or all of the other parties to the agreement are not 18 guilty of the conspiracy or the murder because of some legal 19 insufficiency or defense.

20 The indictment alleges a second category of offenses 21 that were committed or intended to be committed as part of the 22 RICO conspiracy: acts involving the distribution of narcotics, 23 possession with intent to distribute narcotics, and conspiracy 24 to distribute and possess with intent to distribute narcotics, 25 specifically crack cocaine and heroin, in violation of those

170918gayle1

Trial

1 Sections of Title 21 that I previously read.

2 Section 846 of Title 21 of the U.S. Code makes it a 3 crime for an individual to conspire with others to violate the 4 narcotics laws of the United States. To be guilty of narcotics 5 conspiracy, the government must prove:

6 First, that the narcotics conspiracy actually existed;
7 in other words, there was in fact an agreement or understanding 8 to violate those provisions of law that make it illegal to 9 distribute narcotics or to possess narcotics with the intent to 10 distribute them; and

11 Second, the defendant intentionally and knowingly 12 became a member of the narcotics conspiracy; that is, he 13 knowingly associated himself with the narcotics conspiracy and 14 participated in the conspiracy to distribute or possess with 15 the intent to distribute narcotics.

16 I have already explained the federal law of 17 conspiracy, and you should apply that law here.

18 Under Section 841 of Title 21, it is unlawful for any 19 person knowingly or intentionally "to manufacture, distribute 20 or dispense, or possess with intent to manufacture, distribute 21 or dispense, a controlled substance." Crack cocaine and heroin 22 are "controlled substances" under the federal statute. The 23 elements of distributing or possessing with the intent to 24 distribute narcotics are:

25 First, that the defendant or a co-conspirator

170918gayle1

Trial

1 distributed a controlled substance or possessed a controlled 2 substance with the intent to distribute it;

3 Second, that he did so intentionally and knowingly; 4 and

5 Third, that the substance involved was in fact a 6 controlled substance.

7 In determining whether the defendant agreed as part of 8 the RICO conspiracy that he or a co-conspirator would commit 9 acts involving the distribution of a controlled substance, you
10 may apply the aiding and abetting instruction I gave you
11 earlier. Thus, you may find that the RICO conspiracy involved 12 the distribution of controlled substances because you find the 13 defendant agreed that either he or a co-conspirator would 14 personally distribute drugs or possess them with intent to 15 distribute, or because you find that he agreed that he or a 16 co-conspirator would assist a third party in doing so.

17 The legal concept of "possession" may differ from the 18 everyday usage of the term, so let me explain it in some 19 detail.

20 Actual possession is what most of us think as 21 possession, that is, having physical custody or control of an 22 object, like I possess this pen. If you find that the 23 defendant or a co-conspirator had the controlled substance on 24 his person, then you may find that he had possession of it. A 25 person, however, need not have actual physical possession, that

170918gayle1

Trial

1 is, physical custody of an object - to be in legal possession
2 of it. If a person has the ability to exercise substantial 3 control over an object, even if he does not have the object in 4 his physical custody, and that person has the intent to 5 exercise such control, then the person is in possession of that 6 object. This is called "constructive possession."

7 More than one person can have control over the same 8 narcotics. Moreover, possession and ownership are not the 9 same. A person can possess an object and not be the owner of 10 it.

11 The word "distribution" means the actual,
12 constructive, or attempted transfer of a controlled substance.
13 To "distribute" means to deliver, pass, or hand over something 14 to another person, or cause something to be delivered, passed 15 on, or handed over to another person. Distribution does not 16 require a sale.

17 Turning to the definition of "possession with intent 18 to distribute," I begin with the concept of "possession."
19 Possession is pretty much what it sounds like. As I mentioned, 20 actual possession is having physical custody or control of an 21 object, and constructive possession is essentially having 22 control over it, even if not physically possessing it. To 23 "possess with intent to distribute" simply means to have or 24 control a controlled substance with the intent or purpose to 25 "distribute" it to another person or persons. As I said,

170918gayle1

Trial

1 "distribute" means simply to transfer to another.

2 How can you tell whether a person intended to 3 distribute drugs? Because you cannot read a person's mind, 4 usually you must make an inference from his behavior. You
5 cannot find someone guilty, however, unless these inferences 6 convince you beyond a reasonable doubt that the person had the 7 intention to distribute the controlled substance. If someone 8 conspired to obtain drugs for his personal use, rather than for 9 the purpose of distribution or delivery to another, that person 10 would not be guilty of this offense.

11 It may be possible to infer an intention to distribute 12 from the quantity of drugs that you find were involved, 13 although possession of a large quantity of narcotics does not 14 necessarily mean the possessor intended to distribute them. On 15 the other hand, a person may have intended to distribute a 16 controlled substance even if he did not possess a large amount 17 of it. You should make your decision whether the government 18 has proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant 19 conspired to distribute controlled substances from all of the 20 evidence in the case.

21 I have previously defined "knowingly" and 22 "intentionally" on pages 22-23, and you should apply those 23 definitions here.

24 One further point -- one further point on Count One, I 25 guess I should say. If, and only if, you find the defendant

170918gayle1

Trial

1 guilty of Count One, and if, and only if, you find that the 2 government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the 3 pattern of racketeering activity the defendant agreed would be 4 committed involved acts involving the distribution of 5 controlled substances, you must then determine the type of 6 controlled substance or substances involved in the conspiracy.
7 The government has alleged that the controlled substances
8 involved in the conspiracy were crack cocaine and heroin.

9 If you conclude, unanimously, that the government has 10 proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the conspiracy alleged in 11 Count One - not as part of Count One - involves crack cocaine, 12 check "YES" in response to the interrogatory regarding that 13 particular controlled substance on the verdict form. (An 14 interrogatory is simply a question.) The government need not 15 prove the purity of the controlled substance; any mixture or 16 substance containing a detectable amount of a controlled 17 substance is sufficient.

18 There is also a special interrogatory regarding the 19 quantity of crack cocaine involved. You should reach this 20 question only if you have checked "YES" for crack cocaine. You 21 need not determine the precise quantity. If you reach the 22 question of quantity as to crack cocaine, you need only 23 indicate on the verdict form, at least with respect to Count
24 One, I should say, whether the government has established 25 beyond a reasonable doubt that the conspiracy involved 280

170918gayle1

Trial

1 grams or more of crack cocaine. Your finding on quantity must 2 be unanimous in the sense that you may not find that the 3 conspiracy involved at least 280 grams or more of crack cocaine 4 unless all of you agree on that fact. The defendant is 5 responsible for the quantity of drugs involved in any 6 transaction in which he personally participated as part of the 7 conspiracy, whether or not he knew the specific quantity and 8 whether or not it was foreseeable to him, and he is also 9 responsible for quantities that the conspiracy as a whole 10 involved, as long as those amounts were known or foreseeable to 11 him and within the scope of the criminal activity he jointly 12 undertook.

13 Counts Two and Three charge the defendant with 14 committing violent crimes in aid of racketeering activity, in 15 violation of Section 1959 of Title 18 of the United States 16 Code. This explanation will apply to both of these counts.

17 Count Two charges the defendant with attempting to 18 murder, and aiding and abetting the attempted murder of, 19 individuals affiliated with the Southside gang in aid of 20 racketeering activity. Count Three charges the defendant with 21 assaulting with a dangerous weapon and attempting to murder an 22 individual, and aiding and abetting the assault and attempted 23 murder of that individual in aid of racketeering activity.

24 The statute relevant to these counts, Section 1959 of 25 Title 18 of the U.S. Code provides that:

170918gayle1

Trial

1 Whoever...for the purpose of gaining entrance to, or 2 maintaining or increasing position in, an enterprise engaged in 3 racketeering activity, murders, kidnaps, maims, assaults with a 4 dangerous weapon, commits assaults resulting in serious bodily 5 injury upon, or threatens to commit a crime of violence against 6 any individual in violation of the laws of any State or the 7 United States, or attempts or conspires to do so, [is guilty of 8 a crime].

9 To find the defendant guilty of this offense, the 10 government must, prove beyond a reasonable doubt, as to each 11 count each of the following elements:

12 First, that the enterprise charged in Count One 13 existed, that it engaged in racketeering activity, and that it 14 engaged in or its activities affected interstate or foreign 15 commerce;

16 Second, that the defendant committed the underlying 17 crime alleged in the count you are considering; and

18 Third, that the defendant's general purpose in doing 19 so was to gain entrance to the enterprise or maintain or 20 increase his position in the enterprise.

21 I have already defined for you in connection with 22 Count One the concepts of the "enterprise," "affecting 23 interstate commerce," and "racketeering activity," and you 24 should apply those instructions here. If you find beyond a 25 reasonable doubt that the enterprise did exist, affected

170918gayle1

Trial

1 interstate commerce, and engaged in racketeering activity as 2 described in Count One, then you must go on to consider the 3 other elements of the charges in Counts Two and Three.

4 The second element of Counts Two and Three is that the 5 defendant committed or aided and abetted the underlying violent 6 crime alleged in the count you are considering - attempted 7 murder for Count Two, and assault with a dangerous weapon and 8 attempted murder for Count Three.

9 I have previously instructed you on the elements of 10 attempted murder under New York State law at pages 39-40, and 11 you should follow those instructions for the counts that allege 12 these crimes.

13 With respect to Count Three, the elements of assault 14 with a deadly weapon are:

15 First, that the perpetrator intended to cause physical 16 injury to another person; and 17 Second, that in accordance with that intent, the 18 perpetrator caused physical injury to that person or a third 19 person by means of a deadly weapon or dangerous instrument.

20 Under the assault statute, a person intends to cause 21 physical injury to another person when his conscious objective 22 is to cause physical injury to another person. "Physical 23 injury" means impairment of a person's physical condition or 24 substantial pain.

25 Under the assault statute, there is no requirement

170918gayle1

Trial

1 that the person who is injured be the same person who was 2 intended to be injured. Thus, the intent element is satisfied
3 when the perpetrator intends to physically injure one person, 4 but instead physically injures another person.

5 A "deadly weapon" is any loaded weapon from which a 6 shot, readily capable of producing death or other serious 7 physical injury, may be discharged. For a firearm to be 8 considered a "deadly weapon," it must be loaded and operable, 9 although there is no requirement that the defendant knew it was 10 loaded or operable at the time he possessed it. "Loaded" means 11 that the firearm is loaded with ammunition that may be used to 12 discharge such firearm.

13 A "dangerous instrument" is any instrument, article, 14 or substance that, under the circumstances in which it is used, 15 attempted to be used, or threatened to be used, is readily 16 capable of causing death or other serious physical injury, 17 although death or other serious physical injury may not, in 18 fact, be caused.

19 The third element the government must prove beyond a 20 reasonable doubt is that the defendant's purpose in committing 21 the underlying crime was to gain entrance to the Yellow Tape
22 Money Gang enterprise, or to maintain or increase his position 23 within that enterprise. Your focus on this element is on the 24 general purpose of the defendant. The government does not need 25 to prove that gaining entrance to or maintaining or increasing

170918gayle1

Trial

1 position in the enterprise was the defendant's sole or 2 principal motive, so long as one of the those purposes was a 3 substantial motivating factor in the defendant's decision to 4 participate in the underlying crime or crimes. For example, 5 this element is satisfied if you find that the defendant
6 committed the underlying crime because he knew it was expected 7 of him by reason of his membership in or association with the 8 enterprise, because it would maintain or enhance his position 9 or prestige in the enterprise, or, with respect to a 10 high-ranking member of the enterprise, if he committed or 11 sanctioned the act of violence to protect the enterprise's 12 operations or advance its objectives. This element could also 13 be satisfied if you find that the defendant committed the 14 underlying crime to enhance his reputation or wealth within the 15 enterprise or to avoid losing power or prestige within the 16 enterprise. This list of examples is not exhaustive. It may 17 be exhausting, but it's not exhaustive.

18 You may evaluate the guilt of the defendant on Counts
19 Two and Three under an aiding and abetting theory and a theory 20 of Pinkerton liability. I have previously instructed you on 21 those theories at pages 27-30, and you should follow those 22 instructions with respect to these counts.

23 Give me one second. Actually, 27-30 is just -- right.
24 Never mind. I take it back.

25 Moving on to Count Four - we're getting there.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 Count Four charges the defendant with participating in 2 a conspiracy from in or about 2015, up to and including in or 3 about May 2016, to violate the narcotics laws of the United 4 States - specifically, engaging in a conspiracy to distribute 5 crack cocaine or possess crack cocaine with intent to 6 distribute it.

7 I have instructed you generally on the elements of 8 conspiracy at pages 20-28 and specifically on drug-trafficking
9 conspiracy in connection with Count One at pages 41-45, and you 10 should follow those instructions here.

11 If, and only if, you find the government has proven 12 beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant participated in 13 the conspiracy charged in Count Four - regardless of whether 14 you find the defendant guilty of Count One - you must then 15 determine the quantity of crack cocaine involved in the 16 conspiracy. In completing the special interrogatories on drug 17 quantity in connection with Count Four, you should follow the 18 instructions on completing the special interrogatory on drug 19 quantity that I gave you in connection with Count One, except 20 here, rather than simply indicating whether the government has 21 proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the conspiracy involved 22 at least 280 grams of crack cocaine, you'll be given three 23 choices. You'll be asked to indicate if the government has 24 proven the conspiracy involved at least 280 grams of crack 25 cocaine, at least 28 grams of crack cocaine, or less than 28

170918gayle1

Trial

1 grams of crack cocaine.

2 Your finding on quantity must be unanimous in the 3 sense that all of you must agree that the conspiracy involved
4 at least the quantity you indicate. Thus, for example, if all 5 of you agree the conspiracy involved 280 grams or more of 6 mixtures and substances containing a detectable amount of crack 7 cocaine, you should indicate that on the verdict form. If, 8 however, some of you conclude that the conspiracy involved 28
9 grams or more, but the rest of you conclude that it involved 10 280 grams or more, you must indicate 28 grams or more on the 11 verdict form, because all of you would only be in agreement 12 that the conspiracy involved 28 grams or more of crack cocaine.
13 Similarly, if you conclude that the government has proven that 14 the conspiracy involved a detectable amount of crack cocaine, 15 but you cannot agree that the government has proven any 16 particular amount, you must check the box for "Less than 28 17 grams" on the verdict form. If you conclude that the 18 government has not proven beyond a reasonable doubt that the 19 conspiracy involved at least 28 grams of crack cocaine, then 20 you may also indicate that on the verdict form. Actually, 21 disregard that last sentence.

22 You have to be unanimous as to the amount involved.
23 And if some of you think it was at least 28, and others think 24 it was at least 280, you have to default back to 28; and the 25 same thing if some of you believe it was at least 28, and some

170918gayle1

Trial

1 of you believe it was less than 28, in that case, you would 2 have to default back to less than 28.

3 Count Five charges the defendant with using a minor in 4 the commission of a drug offense, in violation of Section 5 861(a)(1) of Title 21 of the U.S. Code. For the defendant to 6 be guilty of that charge, the government must prove each of the 7 following elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

8 First, that at or about the time charged in the 9 indictment, the defendant was at least 18 years old;

10 Second, that the defendant knowingly and intentionally 11 employed, hired, used, persuaded, induced, or enticed a minor 12 in the commission of the underlying drug offenses; and 13 Third, that the minor was under the age of 18 years.

14 I've previously instructed you on the meaning of 15 "knowingly" and "intentionally." You should apply those 16 definitions here.

17 The government is not required to prove that the 18 defendant knew the age of the minor or that he was under 18.

19 Count Six alleges a violation of Section 924(c) of 20 Title 18 of the United States Code, which provides that:

21 Any person who, during and in relation to any crime of 22 violence or drug-trafficking crime...for which the person may 23 be prosecuted in a court of the United States, uses or carries 24 a firearm, or who, in furtherance of any such crime, possesses 25 a firearm, shall [be guilty of a crime].

170918gayle1

Trial

1 Count Six charges that the defendant knowingly used 2 and carried firearms and aided and abetted the same during and 3 in relation to the racketeering conspiracy charged in Count One 4 and the narcotics conspiracy charged in Count Four of the 5 indictment. This means that if you find the defendant is not 6 guilty of both the racketeering conspiracy in Count One and the 7 narcotics conspiracy in Count Four, then you cannot consider 8 Count Six.

9 To find that the defendant personally committed the 10 Section 924(c) firearms offense charged in Count Six, the 11 government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt each of the 12 following elements for each count -- actually, there's only one 13 count -- each of the following elements:

14 First, that on or about the date or dates alleged in 15 the indictment, the defendant used or carried or possessed a 16 firearm;

17 Second, that on those occasions, the defendant used or 18 carried the firearm during and in relation to a crime of 19 violence or drug-trafficking crime, or possessed the firearm in 20 furtherance of those crimes; and 21 Third, that the defendant acted knowingly and 22 unlawfully.

23 The first element the government must prove beyond a 24 reasonable doubt is -- we dropped a word -- is that on or about 25 the date set forth in the indictment, the defendant used or

170918gayle1

Trial

1 carried or possessed a firearm.

2 A firearm under Section 924(c) means "any 3 weapon...which will or is designed to or may readily be 4 converted to expel a projectile by the action of an explosive."
5 Common sense tells you that a gun meets the statutory 6 definition of a firearm. It does not matter whether the gun 7 was loaded or operable at the time of the crime.

8 "Use" of a firearm means active employment of the 9 firearm by the defendant. This does not mean the defendant 10 must actually fire or attempt to fire the weapon, although 11 those would obviously constitute use of a weapon. Brandishing, 12 displaying, or even referring to the weapon so that others know 13 the defendant has the firearm available if needed all 14 constitute use of the firearm. But the mere possession of a 15 firearm at or near the site of the crime without active 16 employment as I just described it is not sufficient to 17 constitute use of the firearm.

18 "Carrying" a firearm is different from "using" it.
19 While use requires active employment of a firearm, "carrying"
20 does not. A person "carries" a firearm when he knowingly 21 holds, moves, conveys, or transports it in some manner on his 22 person, in a bag, or other container, or in his vehicle.

23 Possession of a firearm means that the defendant 24 either had physical possession of the firearm on his person or 25 that he had dominion and control over the place where the

170918gayle1

Trial

1 firearm was located, and had the power and intention to 2 exercise control over the firearm. Mere presence in a place
3 where the firearm is located is not enough. A person need not 4 have physical custody of an object to be in legal possession of 5 it, so long as he has the ability to exercise substantial 6 control over an object and the intent to exercise -- actually, 7 it shouldn't say the object, it should say the firearm. So,
8 let me read that again.

9 A person need not have physical custody of a firearm
10 to be in possession of it, to be in legal possession of it, so 11 long as he has the ability to exercise substantial control over 12 the firearm and the intent to exercise such control, and the 13 firearm is immediately available to him. More than one person 14 can have control over the same firearm. The law recognizes 15 that possession may be sole or joint.

16 Control over an object may be demonstrated by the 17 existence of a relationship between one person having the power 18 or ability to control the item, and another person who has the 19 actual physical custody. The person having control "possesses" 20 the firearm because he has a relationship with the person who 21 has actual physical custody of the firearm and because he can 22 direct the movement or transfer or disposition of the firearm.
23 In addition, an individual may have possession of an item that 24 is not found on his person because that individual has a 25 relationship to the location where the item is maintained. In

170918gayle1

Trial

1 this matter, for example, a business person may legally possess 2 things that are scattered throughout a number of stores or 3 offices or installations around the country.

4 The second element that the government must prove 5 beyond a reasonable doubt is that the defendant used or carried 6 a firearm during and in relation to a crime of violence or a 7 drug-trafficking crime, or possessed a firearm in furtherance
8 of such crime. The racketeering conspiracy charged in Count 9 One qualifies as a crime of violence and the narcotics 10 conspiracy alleged in Count Four qualifies as a 11 drug-trafficking offense.

12 The phrase "during and in relation to" should be given 13 its ordinary meaning.

14 "Possessed a firearm in furtherance of a crime"
15 requires both that the defendant had possession of the firearm 16 - either physically because it was within his dominion and 17 control - and that such possession helped forward, advance, or 18 promote the commission of the crime or was an integral part of 19 the crime. The mere possession of the firearm at the scene of 20 the crime is not sufficient under this definition. The firearm
21 must have played some essential part in furthering the crime 22 for this element to be satisfied on the basis of the 23 defendant's possession of the firearm.

24 The final element the government must prove beyond a 25 reasonable doubt for Count Six is that the defendant knew that

170918gayle1

Trial

1 he was carrying or using a firearm during and in relation to 2 the underlying crime, or knew that he was possessing a firearm
3 in furtherance of the underlying crime, and that the defendant
4 acted unlawfully and knowingly in doing so. I've already 5 defined "unlawfully" and "knowingly."

6 To satisfy this element, you must find that the 7 defendant had knowledge that what he was carrying or using or 8 possessing was a firearm as that term is generally used. The 9 government must also prove that the defendant knew what he was 10 doing - that he knew that he was carrying or using a firearm
11 during and in relation to the commission of a crime of violence 12 or a drug-trafficking crime or that he was possessing a firearm 13 in furtherance of those crimes. It is not necessary, however, 14 for the government to prove that the defendant knew that he was 15 violating any particular law.

16 A defendant may be found guilty of violating Section 17 924(c), which is the statute underlying Count Six under an 18 aiding and abetting theory or under a Pinkerton theory, as 19 described in my instructions at pages 27-30. In addition, I 20 must give you some specific instructions regarding aiding and 21 abetting as it applies to this count only.

22 To convict the defendant of aiding and abetting the 23 crime charged in Count Six, you must find that the defendant 24 facilitated either the use, carrying, or possession of the 25 firearm or the commission of the charged violent crime or

170918gayle1

Trial

1 drug-trafficking crime. It is not necessary that the defendant 2 facilitate both of the possession, use, or carrying of the 3 firearm and the crime of violence or drug-trafficking crime.

4 To convict the defendant of this offense on an aiding 5 an abetting theory, you must also find that the defendant had 6 advance knowledge, that a participant in the crime of violence
7 or drug-trafficking crime would use, carry, or possess a 8 firearm in furtherance of the crime of violence or 9 drug-trafficking crime. Advance knowledge means knowledge at a 10 time when the defendant can attempt to alter the plan or 11 withdraw from it. Knowledge of the gun may, but does not have 12 to, exist before the underlying crime is begun. It is 13 sufficient if the knowledge is gained in the middle of the 14 underlying crime, so long as the defendant continues to 15 participate in the crime and has a realistic opportunity to 16 withdraw from it. You may, but need not, infer that the 17 defendant had sufficient foreknowledge if you find that the 18 defendant continued his participation in the crime after 19 learning about the use, carrying, or possession of a gun by a 20 co-conspirator.

21 In other words, as to aiding and abetting the offense
22 charged in Count Six, the government must prove beyond a 23 reasonable doubt that the defendant facilitated either the use, 24 carrying, or possession of the firearm, or the commission of 25 the charged crime of violence or drug-trafficking crime, and

170918gayle1

Trial

1 had knowledge of the firearm when he still had a realistic 2 opportunity to withdraw from the crime of violence or 3 drug-trafficking crime.

4 If you find the defendant guilty on Count Six, you 5 must indicate in the space provided on the verdict form whether 6 you find that the government has proven beyond a reasonable 7 doubt that the defendant is responsible for brandishing and/or 8 discharging a firearm during the use, carrying, or possession 9 of the firearm. Your finding as to the fact you are 10 considering must be unanimous in the sense that all of you must 11 agree that the defendant is responsible for brandishing and/or 12 discharging a firearm.

13 You must unanimously -- well, that sentence -- the 14 next sentence is just repetition. That's just a mistake.

15 You should apply here my federal aiding and abetting
16 instructions and my instructions regarding Pinkerton liability 17 at pages 27-30.

18 "Brandish" means that all or part of the weapon was 19 displayed or the presence of the weapon was otherwise made 20 known to another person, to intimidate that person, regardless 21 of whether the weapon was directly visible to that person. The 22 weapon does not have to be directly visible, but it must be 23 present.

24 A defendant is guilty of aiding and abetting the 25 brandishing of a firearm if he is guilty of a firearms offense,

170918gayle1

Trial

1 and if he had advance knowledge that another participant in a 2 crime of violence or drug-trafficking crime would display the 3 firearm or make the presence of the firearm known for purposes 4 of intimidation.

5 To "discharge" means to fire or shoot, whether 6 intentionally or accidentally. To aid and abet the possession or 7 carrying of a firearm that was discharged, the defendant need 8 not have advance knowledge that the discharge would occur. If 9 you conclude that the defendant is guilty of Count Six and that 10 the firearm or firearms in question were discharged, you should 11 check "YES" next to the line for "discharged" on the verdict 12 form.

13 Count Seven charges the defendant with tampering and 14 attempting to tamper with a witness, in violation of Section 15 1512 of Title 18 of the United States Code, which provides, in 16 relevant part, "Whoever corruptly...obstructs, influences, or 17 impedes any official proceeding, or attempts to do so," shall 18 be guilty of the offense.

19 To prove tampering with a witness, the government must 20 prove the following elements beyond a reasonable doubt:

21 First, that on or about the dates alleged in the 22 indictment, an official proceeding was pending, was about to be 23 instituted, or was reasonably foreseeable to the defendant; and 24 Second, that the defendant obstructed, influenced, or 25 impeded that official proceeding, or attempted to do so; and

170918gayle1

1 Third, that the defendant acted corruptly.

2 The first element the government must prove is that on 3 or about the dates alleged in the indictment, an official 4 proceeding was pending, about to be instituted, or reasonably 5 foreseeable to the defendant.

6 An official proceeding means a proceeding before a 7 court, judge, grand jury, or federal agency. The law does not 8 require the proceeding to be pending at the time of the 9 defendant's actions as long as the proceeding was foreseeable 10 such that the defendant knew that his actions were likely to 11 affect the proceeding.

12 A federal criminal case pending before the Court is an 13 official proceeding within the meaning of this statute.

14 The second element that the government must prove 15 beyond a reasonable doubt is that on or about the dates alleged 16 in the indictment, the defendant obstructed, influenced, or 17 impeded that official proceeding, or attempted to do so.

18 To obstruct, influence, or impede an official 19 proceeding, or attempt to do so, the defendant's actions must 20 have a relationship in time, causation, or logic to the 21 relevant proceedings. It is not necessary for the defendant to 22 know with certainty that his conduct would affect the official 23 proceeding, nor is it necessary that the defendant's conduct
24 actually obstructs or influences the official proceeding. It 25 is sufficient that the defendant's actions would have the

170918gayle1

1 natural effect of interfering with the official proceeding.

2 The third element that the government must prove 3 beyond a reasonable doubt is that on or about the dates alleged 4 in the indictment, the defendant acted corruptly in doing so.
5 To act corruptly means to act with an improper purpose and to 6 engage in conduct knowingly and dishonestly and with the intent 7 to obstruct, impede, or influence the due administration of 8 justice.

9 I have now told you the elements of the charges in the 10 indictment. I hope your heads aren't spinning. In addition to 11 the elements I have described to you, the government, as to 12 each charge, must prove that this prosecution has been brought 13 properly in the Southern District of New York where we now sit.
14 The Southern District of New York includes Orange County, which 15 includes Newburgh, and the Southern District includes 16 Westchester County, which includes the Westchester County jail 17 in Valhalla, New York.

18 I note on the issue of venue and on this issue alone, 19 the government need not prove its position beyond a reasonable 20 doubt. It is sufficient if the government proves venue by a 21 mere preponderance of the evidence. A proposition is proven by 22 a preponderance of the evidence if you conclude that it is more 23 likely true than not.

24 If you find that the government has failed to meet 25 this venue requirement with regard to any of the charges, you

170918gayle1

1 must acquit the defendant of that charge.

2 In a few minutes, you will go into the jury room and 3 begin your deliberations. It is your duty as jurors to consult 4 with one another and to deliberate with a view to reaching an 5 agreement. Each of you must decide the case for yourself, but 6 you should do so only after consideration of the case with your 7 fellow jurors. Your verdict, and the answers to each question 8 on the verdict form, must be unanimous. Discuss and weigh your 9 respective opinions dispassionately, without regard to 10 sympathy, without prejudice or favor toward any party, and 11 adopt that conclusion which in your good conscience appears to 12 be in accordance with the evidence.

13 As you deliberate, please listen to the opinions of 14 your fellow juror and ask for an opportunity to express your 15 own views. Every juror should be heard. No one juror should 16 hold center stage in the jury room, and no one juror should 17 control or monopolize the deliberations. You should all listen 18 to one another with courtesy and respect. If, after stating 19 your own view, and if, after listening to your fellow jurors, 20 you become convinced that your view is wrong, do not hesitate 21 because of stubbornness or pride to change your view. On the 22 other hand, do not surrender your honest opinions and beliefs 23 concerning the weight or effect of the evidence solely because 24 of the opinions of your fellow jurors or because you are 25 outnumbered or for the mere purpose of returning a verdict.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 Your final vote must reflect your conscientious belief as to 2 how the issues should be decided. Your verdict must be 3 unanimous.

4 You are not to discuss the case until all jurors are 5 present. Nine, ten or even eleven jurors together is only a 6 gathering of individuals. Only when all 12 jurors are present 7 do you constitute a jury and only then may you deliberate.

8 Your first task when you retire to deliberate is to 9 vote on one of you to sit as your foreperson. The foreperson 10 does not have any more power or authority than any other juror, 11 and his or her vote or opinion does not count for any more than 12 any other juror's vote or opinion.

13 The foreperson is merely your spokesperson to the 14 Court. He or she will send out any notes, and when the jury 15 has reached a verdict, he or she will notify the marshal that 16 the jury has reached a verdict, and he or she will come into 17 open court with the other jurors and give the verdict.

18 The foreperson will receive the verdict form on which 19 to record your verdict. You will also each have copies of the 20 verdict form. It lists the questions you must resolve based on 21 the evidence and the instructions that I have given you.

22 When the foreperson has completed the form to reflect 23 the unanimous decisions of the jury, he or she must sign the 24 form and the form will be marked as a Court Exhibit.

25 The exhibits will be sent to you in the jury room,

170918gayle1

Trial

1 except for the drugs, guns, and ammunition, and also, I am 2 told, except for Government Exhibit 213, which is the video of 3 the white car. That requires special software that we were 4 unable to load into the laptop that you will have in the jury 5 room. So, you'll be able to listen to and view all of the 6 recordings except for Exhibit 213 on that laptop that we're 7 going to send back with you. If you want to see 213, you can 8 come back in the courtroom. So, 213, the drugs, the guns and 9 the ammunition will be available to you in the courtroom if you 10 wish to review them.

11 If you want any of the testimony read back to you, 12 that can be arranged. Please appreciate that it is not always 13 easy to locate the testimony you might want, so be as specific 14 as you possibly can as to what witness and what portion of that 15 witness' testimony you would like to hear.

16 Any communication with the Court should be made in 17 writing, signed by your foreperson, and given to the marshal, 18 who will be outside the jury room door while you deliberate. I 19 will respond to any questions or requests you have as promptly 20 as possible, either in writing or by having you return to the 21 courtroom so I can speak to you in person. But please 22 appreciate that I have to share your notes with the lawyers, 23 and they will have opinions as to how I should respond, so 24 don't expect an instantaneous response if you have a question.

25 If at any time you are not in agreement, you are not

170918gayle1

Trial

1 to reveal the standing of the jurors - that is, the split of 2 the vote - to anyone, including me, at any time during your 3 deliberations. So do not ever indicate, in a note or 4 otherwise, what the vote is or which way the majority of 5 leaning or anything like that. Nobody outside the jury should 6 know how the jury stands on any issue until a unanimous verdict 7 is reached.

8 If you took notes during the course of the trial, you 9 should not show your notes to or discuss your notes with any 10 other juror during your deliberations.

11 Any notes you have taken are to be used solely to 12 assist you. The fact that a particular juror has taken notes 13 entitles that juror's views to no greater weight than those of 14 any other juror.

15 Further, your notes are not to substitute for your 16 recollection of the evidence in the case. If you have any 17 doubt as to any testimony, you may request that the testimony
18 be read back to you, as I mentioned a moment ago.

19 Under your oath as jurors, you are to evaluate the 20 evidence calmly and objectively, without prejudice or sympathy.
21 You are to be completely fair and impartial. You are to be 22 guided solely by the evidence or the lack of evidence in the 23 case, and the crucial bottom-line question you must ask 24 yourself as you sift through the evidence is, "Has the 25 government proven the elements of the crimes charged in each

170918gayle1

1 count beyond a reasonable doubt?"

2 It would be improper for you to consider, in deciding 3 the facts of the case, any personal feelings you may have about 4 the race, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, 5 disability, or age of any party or witness, or any other such 6 irrelevant factor. It would be equally improper for you to 7 allow any feelings you might have about the nature of the 8 crimes charged to interfere with your decision-making process.

9 All parties are entitled to the same fair trial at 10 your hands. They stand equal before the law and are to be 11 dealt with as equals in this court. If you let fear or 12 prejudice or bias or sympathy interfere with your thinking, 13 there is a risk that you will not arrive at a true and just 14 verdict.

15 The most important part of this case, Members of the 16 Jury, is the part that you as jurors are about to play as you 17 deliberate on the issues of fact.

18 It is for you and you alone to decide whether the 19 government has proven beyond a reasonable doubt each of the 20 essential elements of the crimes with which the defendant is 21 charged. If the government has succeeded on a particular 22 count, your verdict should be guilty as to that count. Another 23 typo. If it has failed, your verdict should be not guilty.

24 I know you will try the issues that have been 25 presented to you according to the oath that you have taken as

170918gayle1

Trial

1 jurors. In that oath, you promised that you would well and 2 truly try the issues in this case and render a true verdict
3 according to the law and the evidence.

4 As I previously stated, your verdict must be 5 unanimous. Again, if at any time you are not in agreement, you 6 are not to reveal the standing of the jurors - that is, the 7 split of the vote - to anyone, including me, at any time during 8 your deliberations.

9 Now, let me ask your patience for a few moments
10 longer. I have to spend a few moments with counsel at the side 11 bar. I'll ask you to remain where you are without talking, and 12 I will be back in a minute.

13 (At the side bar)

14 THE COURT: Did I mess anything up?

15 MR. BRAVERMAN: I don't think so. I just had one 16 question.

17 MS. COMEY: We have nothing.

18 MR. BRAVERMAN: On the verdict sheet, and I'm just 19 tired, so maybe I'm confused, but on the verdict sheet, with 20 respect to brandish and discharge, I believe in reading and 21 listening to it again, is it clear that they don't have to 22 decide brandish or discharge; that they, like, the drugs, they 23 can be less than 28 grams or they can be a -- just use -- take 24 a look at the verdict form really fast.

25 THE COURT: It says, "If you find him guilty on Count

170918gayle1

1 Six, please indicate if you also found him responsible..."

2 MR. BRAVERMAN: "Also" is in there.

3 THE COURT: It's on the verdict form.

4 MR. BRAVERMAN: On the verdict form. Perfect. That's 5 what I want.

6 THE COURT: I see what you're saying. You want me --

7 MR. BRAVERMAN: Because the instruction I think 8 doesn't say the "also" thing.

9 THE COURT: You want me to tell them that on Count 10 Six, they have three options: They can find he's guilty of 11 Count Six without brandishing or discharging --

12 MR. BRAVERMAN: Yes.

13 THE COURT: He's guilty of Count Six, and he also 14 brandished, or he's guilty of Count Six, and he also 15 discharged?

16 MR. BRAVERMAN: Exactly.

17 THE COURT: Or there's actually four. He brandished 18 and discharged.

19 MR. BRAVERMAN: Yes; I guess that true.

20 THE COURT: Okay. It's clear in the verdict form, but 21 it may not have been clear on what I said, so I'll just tell 22 them that. That's fine.

23 MR. BRAVERMAN: Other than that, no objections.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 (In open court)

170918gayle1

Trial

1 THE COURT: Just one clarification on note six. I'm 2 not sure if I made this clear.

3 You're going to first be asked whether you find the 4 defendant guilty on Count Six. If you do, then you'll have to 5 consider whether the firearm was brandished and whether it was 6 discharged.

7 So, on Count Six, you have four options -- well, five, 8 actually: You have, He's not guilty of Count Six. You have,
9 He's guilty of Count Six. You have, He's guilty of Count Six 10 and he's responsible for brandishing. You have, He's guilty of 11 Count Six and the firearm was discharged. Or you have, He's 12 guilty of Count Six and it was both brandished and discharged.

13 So, I just want to make clear that if you find the 14 defendant guilty of Count Six, then you'll go on to consider 15 brandishing and discharge, but you don't get to that unless you 16 find the defendant guilty of Count Six. And as with any other 17 decision you're making here on this verdict form, you have to 18 be unanimous.

19 So, if some of you think that the firearm was 20 discharged and others of you think not, then you can't check 21 the box for discharge; you can only check it if you all agree.

22 So, I hope that didn't make things more confusing.
23 So, that is it for the instructions. And now comes the part 24 that I always dislike, which is saying good-bye to the 25 alternates.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 At this time, the regular jurors are going to begin
2 their deliberations in the case. Nevertheless, you alternates
3 are not quite excused. While the jury conducts its 4 deliberations, you do not have to be in court, but you should 5 make sure Ms. Cama has numbers where you can be reached, 6 because it is possible that one or more of you could be needed
7 to deliberate if a regular juror becomes unable to continue.

8 Ms. Cama will call you if deliberations are completed 9 without our needing you so that you know when you are 10 completely finished.

11 Between now and then, however, you must continue to 12 observe all of the restrictions on which I have instructed you 13 throughout the trial; that is, you must not discuss the case 14 with anyone, including your fellow alternate jurors, the 15 regular jurors, other people involved in the trial, members of 16 your family, friends, co-workers, or anyone else. Do not speak
17 at all with any of the parties, witnesses, or attorneys. Do 18 not permit anyone to discuss the case with you. Do not remain 19 in the presence of anyone discussing the case.

20 If anyone approaches you and tries to talk to you
21 about the case, please report that to me through Ms. Cama
22 immediately. Do not listen to or watch or read any news 23 reports concerning the trial, if there were to be any. Do not 24 do any research on the Internet or otherwise. And do not visit 25 any places mentioned during the trial or conduct any kind of

170918gayle1

Trial

1 investigation on your own.

2 Should you be asked to come back to participate in 3 reaching a verdict in this case, the only information you will 4 be allowed to consider in deciding the case is what you learned 5 in this courtroom during the trial. I'm sorry that you will 6 probably miss the experience of deliberating with a jury, but 7 the law provides for a jury of 12 persons in this case.

8 Now, we are going to swear the marshal, and then you
9 can all go back to the jury room together. The alternates 10 should take their belongings and say their good-byes. The 11 regular jurors should not deliberate until the alternates have 12 departed.

13 Let me ask the marshal to come forward to be sworn.

14 (Marshal sworn)

15 THE CLERK: State your name for the record.

16 THE MARSHAL: Carlos Bedoya, B-E-D-O-Y-A.

17 THE COURT: All right, ladies and gentlemen. After 18 weeks of hearing me say "Don't discuss the case," I'm now going 19 to ask the first 12 of you, once the four alternatives are 20 gone, to begin discussing the case.

21 I assume you'll go at least until 5:00 today. If you
22 want to stay a little later, that's okay. If I haven't heard 23 from you, I will call you out at 5:00 just to say good evening
24 and to find out what schedule you want to sit tomorrow. Again, 25 there is no time pressure here. You should take as much time

170918gayle1

Trial

1 as you need to consider everything that's been put before you
2 in terms of evidence and law.

3 In a moment, Ms. Cama is going to bring back the 4 exhibits, and she will also bring back the verdict sheet and 5 copies for all of you.

6 And I think when you've had a chance to look over the 7 verdict sheet, that will help you focus on your task and help 8 you organize your deliberations.

9 With that, good-bye to the alternates. Thank you very 10 much for your service. You are off the hook for jury duty for 11 four years, at least in this court.

12 And the rest of you, the 12 regular jurors, as soon as 13 the alternates have departed, you can begin your deliberations.

14 Thank you.

15 (Alternate jurors are excused)

16 (At 3:10 p.m., the jury retired to deliberate)

17 (Jury not present)

18 THE COURT: The government, if you're not going to be 19 at your desks, give Ms. Cama your cell numbers.

20 And Mr. Braverman, if you're going to not be on the 21 sixth floor, give Alice your cell so she can track you down, 22 but don't go far.

23 MR. BRAVERMAN: I promise.

24 THE COURT: Thank you all.

25 MS. COMEY: Thank you, your Honor.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 THE CLERK: Have both sides put on the record with the 2 court reporter that all the exhibits that are supposed to go in 3 are there and going in; and nothing that's not supposed to be 4 in is there and not going in?

5 MR. BRAVERMAN: I'll get my stipulation now --

6 THE CLERK: Because I can't give them exhibits until 7 you do that.

8 MR. BRAVERMAN: Someone is going to unlock the door 9 for me?

10 THE COURT: But you've looked at what the government 11 proposes to send in and it's fine?

12 MR. BRAVERMAN: Yes. That's fine.

13 THE COURT: All right. So it's just Exhibit D.

14 MR. BRAVERMAN: Exhibit D.

15 THE COURT: So Alice, he needs you to unlock --

16 THE CLERK: I'm going to get the keys.

17 (Pause)

18 MR. BRAVERMAN: I have conferred with the government.
19 We have examined the exhibit lists. And all the items that the 20 Judge indicated that are in the exhibit cart are, in fact, in 21 the exhibit cart. The only thing left is the contraband and 22 the disk for the video that cannot be viewed on the laptop.

23 MS. COMEY: Which is Exhibit 213.

24 (Recess pending verdict)

25

170918gayle1

Trial

1 (In open court; jury not present)

2 THE COURT: We have a note that we have marked as 3 Court Exhibit 5. Court Exhibit 4 will be the charge.

4 It reads as follows: "We, the Jury, request 5 the testimony of Laquan Falls and Brendan Germaine. We would 6 also like more clarification on the ages of David Brown and 7 Armad Evans during the time of the investigation." And it's 8 signed by Ms. Alexandre, who is Juror No. 1.

9 So they obviously don't understand how it works.
10 We're clearly not going to read back Laquan Falls and Brendan 11 Germaine. We'd be here for a week.

12 But I think overnight, the parties can redact out the 13 side bars and objections that were sustained, and we can give 14 it to them in the morning. Or I can call them back out and 15 tell them you don't really want us reading the whole thing, 16 come up with something more specific, but my impression is that 17 they want a transcript, because I don't think they really want 18 a full read-back.

19 What do you think on that?

20 MR. BRAVERMAN: I agree with the Court. And the 21 government also reminded me that Police Officer Rodriguez did 22 speak on the subject of David Brown and Armad Evans on pages 96
23 to 97. That's only two pages there. It's fairly short. There 24 may be a second one. I will look again. Laquan Falls runs 25 about 187 pages, and Mr. Germaine runs about -- more than

170918gayle1

Trial

1 300 --

2 THE COURT: Well, I guess --

3 MR. BRAVERMAN: -- at least.

4 THE COURT: I say we can prepare the transcript. That 5 is my way of saying the government can prepare the transcript.

6 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor. We're happy to do so.

7 THE COURT: So within the transcript of Falls and 8 Germaine, there's testimony about the ages of Brown and Evans.

9 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor.

10 THE COURT: And the only other witness who talked 11 about it was --

12 MS. COMEY: Was Detective Rodriguez. There's also 13 information that's relevant to this point within the broader 14 Facebook extracts that are admitted in evidence. So, we would 15 propose a few pages to direct their attention to, as well. We 16 can come up with those at the same time that will we're putting 17 together the transcripts.

18 THE COURT: So, why don't I tell them that we'll have 19 the full transcripts of Falls and Germaine in the morning, that 20 they both spoke about the ages of Brown and Evans, and that we 21 will also give them the excerpts of Rodriguez -- it was 22 Detective Rodriguez --

23 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor.

24 THE COURT: -- who spoke about the ages of one of them
25 or both of them?

170918gayle1

Trial

1 MS. COMEY: I believe both of them, your Honor, though 2 I need to check to confirm.

3 MR. BRAVERMAN: I found Evans, but I haven't found 4 Brown yet, but I just looked.

5 THE COURT: All right. And that we will also have for 6 them in the morning particular pages of Facebook posts that are 7 relevant. So, I could call them out and tell them or I could 8 just write them a note. Why don't I write them a note.

9 MR. BRAVERMAN: Well, it's already 4:40. I don't know 10 when the Court intends to keep them today anyway.

11 THE COURT: I was going to have them come out at 5:00.
12 I guess I can have them come out now and tell them what we plan 13 to do. I can ask them how long they want to stay, and if they 14 say they want to leave at 5:00, I can tell them leave when 15 you're ready.

16 You want to have them come in.

17 (Jury present; time noted: 3:43 p.m.)

18 THE COURT: Hi, ladies and gentlemen.

19 I read your note. Assume when you say you want 20 the testimony of Laquan Falls and Brendan Germaine, you don't 21 want us sitting here for days while we read it back; you want a 22 transcript of it?

23 A JUROR: Yes.

24 THE COURT: We can do that, but we have to go through 25 it and redact out all the side bars, all the discussion that

170918gayle1

Trial

1 took place while you were in the jury room, all the objections
2 that were sustained. So we will do that tonight and have that 3 for you in the morning.

4 You also asked for more clarification on the ages of 5 David Brown and Armad Evans during the time of the 6 investigation. Falls and Germaine both mentioned that issue
7 during their testimony. In addition, Detective Rodriguez 8 mentioned the ages of one or both of them. We'll have that for 9 you in the morning. And in addition, there are Facebook pages 10 relevant to that issue and we will, in the morning, be able to 11 direct you to particular Facebook pages.

12 So I can't summarize any evidence for you or clarify
13 anything for you, but I can, with the aid of the lawyers, point 14 you to evidence that's relevant on that subject, and we'll have 15 that for you in the morning.

16 Have you thought about how long you want to stay 17 tonight?

18 A JUROR: 5:00.

19 THE COURT: So, unless you have another note when it 20 gets to be 5:00, you don't have to come back out here, just 21 depart, and tomorrow you want to come at --

22 A JUROR: 9:30.

23 THE COURT: And you'll stay until 5:00 or until you 24 finish? That's fine. We will have this all ready for you at 25 9:30 hopefully.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 So you can resume your deliberations now and go until 2 5:00 and then depart. But just remember, it is as important as 3 ever, maybe even more so that you not talk about the case with 4 anyone except each other. Don't do any research, don't look 5 anything up. Don't expose yourself to anything relating to the 6 case outside the courtroom. Don't let anyone try to talk to 7 you about it. In the morning, don't start discussing the case 8 until all 12 of you are present.

9 And we'll have the coffee waiting for you and Alice 10 tells me tomorrow we're going to try something different for 11 lunch. That will be the thrill to look forward to.

12 So, unless you have anymore questions between now and 13 5:00, I'll see you in the morning. Have a good evening.

14 (Jury deliberations resumed; time noted: 3:46 p.m.)

15 THE COURT: So logistically, I guess it's easy in the 16 sense that it's going to be the entire testimony of Brown and 17 Evans. We just need to take out the side bars, the sustained 18 objections.

19 The government is going to do that tonight.

20 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Can you send it to Mr. Braverman so he can 22 look at it tonight?

23 MR. BRAVERMAN: I'll try to come up with a list as 24 well, and we have everybody's cellphone numbers. We'll stay in 25 touch.

170918gayle1

Trial

1 THE COURT: Why don't we reconvene at 9:15, just to 2 make sure we're on the same page.

3 MS. COMEY: How many copies would you like us to 4 prepare, assuming we agree on redactions?

5 THE COURT: That's a good question.

6 MR. BRAVERMAN: When you say -- three or four is 7 enough. I don't think we need 12.

8 THE COURT: I don't think they really need 12. Why 9 don't we send in three, and we can tell them if they want more, 10 we'll make more. I just don't want to kill too many trees.

11 I'm looking at Rodriguez's testimony.

12 MS. COMEY: I believe page 95 and 97 contain the 13 relevant testimony.

14 THE COURT: Page 95 refers back to something, because 15 the question is, you said about Armad Evans being about age 17, 16 so there must have been something before that.

17 Unless the premise of the question --

18 MS. COMEY: It's 94. I apologize, your Honor. It 19 begins on 94:

20 "Were you also able to learn his date of birth?"

21 "Yes."

22 "How old was he at the time?"

23 "17."

24 THE COURT: So, 94-95. And then 97, I got to say, 25 that is hearsay, but there was no objection. I guess it's in

170918gayle1

Trial

1 there.

2 MR. BRAVERMAN: My voir dire?

3 THE COURT: No. The question was:

4 "From your internal system, were you able to determine 5 how old he was?"

6 "Yes."

7 "How old was he?"

8 "17."

9 I mean, what the internal system says is hearsay, but 10 there was no objection.

11 MS. COMEY: Your Honor, I would proffer I believe we 12 could have laid a foundation that it was business records, the 13 internal system of the City of Newburgh Police Department had 14 such an objection been made.

15 THE COURT: Well, there was no objection, so it's in 16 the transcript.

17 I'm not sure Rodriguez would have been able to say 18 that the information about Mr. Brown's date of birth that was 19 in there came from someone with knowledge, but he might have 20 been able to. I don't rule it out. But you couldn't have a 21 cop testify, I ran the plate and it's registered to so-and-so.
22 That's hearsay, and this is similar. Although, maybe the 23 officer could have laid the foundation. But there was no 24 objection, and there's no, I don't think, argument that David 25 Brown wasn't 17 at the time. It's in the record, so they'll

170918gayle1

Trial

1 consider it.

2 Are the Facebook pages you're talking about ones that 3 have not been cut out? They're somewhere on those disks?

4 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor. So, we would need to 5 look through and figure out where they are, but we would send 6 pages to Mr. Braverman for him to consider.

7 THE COURT: Is there a way to search them so you get 8 all of them?

9 MS. COMEY: They are searchable by a Control F 10 function, so to the extent you want to --

11 THE COURT: So, you can put in "birthday, age 18." 12 All right. If the search captures everything, that would be 13 too bad, but Mr. Braverman should feel -- you should propose 14 search terms.

15 MR. BRAVERMAN: Yes.

16 THE COURT: I assume the government has some in mind.

17 MS. COMEY: Yes, your Honor.

18 THE COURT: But if they're all going to search 19 birthday or 18, if you can think of other words you'd like them 20 to search, let them know early.
